NAZIS ONLY 65 MILES FROM MOSCOW

Fair Enough by WESTBROOK PEGLER

Does anybody here know how you feel about running for the United States Senate?

I mean, do you have to see anybody first to get nominated or anything, or can you just say you want to run for the Senate and get yourself some cards printed and some celluloid buttons with your picture on them and thereby become a candidate? Don't you have to get some people to sign the petitions and, if so, where do you get the petitions and how do you get your name on the ballot?

The reason I am asking is that I have more than half a notion to run against Bob Wagner in New York the next time around and mow him down on the issue of the Wagner act, or labor's Magna Charter, as the bleeding hearts called it in their moist, convulsive way before anyone had had a chance to see it work.

This isn't a decision yet on my part. It is just an idea that I have been playing around with for some time.

I wouldn't take a stand on any other issue than just the one, amendment of the Wagner act. War? Nope, I say. Not interested because, if the Wagner act isn't amended, it won't make any difference who wins the war over yonder, because we are going to lose our freedom anyway to the pot of brown shirts or goons of the profiteers.

In fact, hundreds of thousands of Americans have lost an important portion of their liberties anyway under the act. I would hammer away on that and I wouldn't give anybody any yes, no or a G. T. H. on any other subject.

Farm problems? I know nothing about them. Finance? Don't bother me. My specialty is going to be the Wagner act.

I am going to go back over the dirty work of the Labor Relations Board when the Communists were running around good American citizens in those kangaroo courts of theirs and putting their heads to-

COMMENT UPON JURY VERDICTS BEFORE COURT

Higher Tribunal To Decide How Far Newspaper May Go

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Can a newspaper safely comment editorially on cases in which a jury verdict has been rendered but in which motions for a new trial or probation are yet to be heard?

This is one question the supreme court is asked to decide in the appeal of the Los Angeles Times from a contempt of court conviction in the Los Angeles county superior court on which further argument was scheduled for today.

Another question before the court is what rule should be used to determine whether the language of the editorial endangers either the right of the litigant or the independence of the judiciary.

Counsel for the Times argued yesterday that the rendition of the jury's verdict concludes a trial itself and that new trial motions and applications for probation were "in no sense a part" of the trial itself.

They also argued that in determining whether an editorial is contemptuous, it is not sufficient to find that the editorial conceivably could influence a court action, but that "real and present danger" of such influence could be established.

The conviction of the Times and H. D. Hotchkiss, its managing editor, followed publication of editorials subsequent to jury verdicts, but prior to

SEVERAL PRISONERS GRANTED CLEMENCY

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Governor Sam Jones today commuted to life imprisonment the sentence of death imposed on Jesse Lawrence James, negro convicted of murder at New Orleans in June, 1940, and since then waiting imposition of sentence in the Orleans parish jail.

WITNESS FLAYS PLAN TO REVISE NEUTRALITY ACT

Says Arming Merchant Ships Would Be Means Of Bringing War

DEBATE IS LIMITED

Foes Of Change Protest Short Time Allowed For Testimony

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—John E. Finerty, New York attorney appearing as the first witness against proposals to permit the arming of merchant ships, denounced the idea today as "a means of involving us in this war."

Finerty, who said he once represented Eamon de Valera, now head of the government of Eire, told the House foreign affairs committee that the three American ships sunk so far—the Robin Moor, the Steel Seafarer and the Sessa—were carrying contraband. He asserted they were not sunk without warning.

"If from now on we make it possible for the Germans to say that any merchant vessel is armed, we condemn our own seamen to total destruction," Finerty said.

When the committee reopened its doors after an executive session, Representative Mundt, Republican, South Dakota, announced he had received a telegram from John Cudahy, former ambassador to Belgium, stating he had asked Chairman Bloom, Democrat, New York, for an opportunity to testify. A similar message came from John T. Flynn, New York economist, Mundt said. Flynn's wire also protested against "the whole design to stifle discussion on and to railroad through this bill, which is designed not to protect American ships but to get us into this war."

President Felix Morley of Haverford College wired Representative Vorys, Republican, Ohio, of the committee that he was declining an invitation to testify because he believed the "administration has gone too far to make presentations of my viewpoint of a practical value in these improperly abbreviated hearings."

Morley's message said the act was "unquestionably preserving our peace effectively."

GEORGIA U. OUT OF CONFERENCE

Dropped Because Of 'Political Interference' In Ousting Cocking

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The University of Georgia was dropped from the Southern University conference here by a committee that charged "political interference" in the removal of Georgia's Dean Walter D. Cocking, and students at Athens, Ga., staged a demonstration against Governor Eugene Talmadge, a leading figure in Cocking's dismissal.

Several hundred University of Georgia students paraded through Athens and the campus there last night, and, Student President Alpha Fowler said, hung an "effigy of Governor Talmadge in front of the main entrance to the campus."

The unanimous action of the conference, composed of 41 leading colleges from Maryland to Texas, followed the appearance Sunday of a Georgia delegation, including Talmadge, which defended the state board of regents' decision several months ago not to renew Cocking's contract. A revamped board of regents and Talmadge charged the educator with advocating racial co-education.

In an adopted resolution, the conference committee asserted that "not only was Dean Cocking dismissed without due notice and without just cause, but by a board of regents at the direction of the governor and by a board of regents reconstructed for

ASSERT 3,000,000 RUSSIANS PRISONERS

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The total of Russian prisoners in the war in the east now has risen above 3,000,000 and is still increasing, the German government announced today.

It was further stated that the equivalent of 300 Russian divisions at full war strength had been captured, killed or wounded. According to this estimate, which assumed that each division numbered 20,000 men, 6,000,000 Russian soldiers thus have been put out of action.

(The Berlin radio reported that the total of prisoners taken in the Vyazma and Bryansk "encirclements" had risen to more than 500,000.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation said today 160,000 Germans had been killed and 450,000 wounded in the new offensive against Russia which opened October 2.

The BBC gave as its source "latest reports from the front." The BBC broadcast was heard by NBC.

Think Bergdoll Soon Will Get Prison Release

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Early release of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, widely publicized World war draft dodger, from the United States army disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., was indicated today in a request by Attorney General Biddle for dismissal of 22 year old indictments pending against him and other persons.

The justice department announced that Gerald A. Gleeson, United States attorney at Philadelphia, had been instructed to ask dismissal of the old indictment, returned between July, 1918, and June, 1920, under the 1917 selective service act.

It was learned simultaneously that the existence of the old charges was brought to the attention of the attorney general by a letter from a high war department official stating that Bergdoll had asked for a parole and inquiring, as is customary practice, whether any charges still were pending against him. The official explained that if any charges were pending, the army would be prohibited from granting him a release.

The attorney general was said to have looked into the matter and, finding the old indictments, to have decided that they should be removed since the justice department did not intend to prosecute them.

Bergdoll is serving a seven and one-half-year sentence imposed by military courts for desertion, escape and draft evasion.

He originally was sentenced in 1917, but escaped at Philadelphia in May, 1920, and fled to Germany by way of England. He returned voluntarily in May, 1939, was seized aboard ship, and later in the year was sentenced by a military court.

The charges to be dismissed directly involving Bergdoll include three indictments and an information. These indictments also name Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, the draft evader's mother; Charles Braun, James E. Romig, Eugene Stecker, and Edwin R. Bergdoll.

Mrs. Bergdoll, Romig and Stecker pleaded guilty many years ago and were fined.

An informed official said that it was his understanding that the request for information concerning pending charges against Bergdoll was made with the view to granting him release on parole, but that the war department had not yet had time to act, inasmuch as the letter from the attorney general had not reached Secretary of War Stimson.

ACE AIRMAN HURT IN 10-FOOT FALL

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Flight Lieutenant Paddy Finucane, 21-year-old Irishman fighting with the R. A. F. has downed 23 German planes without a scratch to himself—but a 10-foot fall had him in Croydon hospital today.

Finucane was credited with bagging two German fighters in yesterday's R. A. F. sweeps over the English channel—his 22nd and 23rd victories.

In celebrating with friends last night he was walking along a narrow balustrade, missed his footing and made a one-point landing in an areaway.

A foot was injured—not seriously.

ARIAS REFUSES TO SIGN PAPER OF RESIGNATION

Panama's Ousted President Arrives In Panama Canal Zone

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Panama's ousted president, Arnulfo Arias, arrived here from Cuba today aboard the Honduran steamer Cefalu with the avowed intention of returning to his homeland where a bloodless coup last Thursday overthrew his regime.

When the steamer docked, however, Arias remained in his cabin.

His first act was to reject a demand for his formal resignation, Galilio Solis, who had been Arias' contact man in the old regime, brought a document of resignation for the ex-president to sign but he refused.

Other visitors were not permitted to board the ship to see Arias, although his wife and sister had come from Panama to meet him. For the time being he was considered in custody of the chief health officer of the Canal Zone, Brigadier-General M. C. Stayers.

United States officials said Arias would not be detained if he came ashore in Cristobal, but it appeared he would not be permitted to remain long in the Canal Zone because of immigration restrictions.

It was believed certain, however, that Arias would be arrested immediately if he set foot in Panama.

Representatives of the Panama government, who arrived in Cristobal by train last night, conferred at length with United States authorities, and it was believed they would advise Arias not to attempt to return home.

Heading the Panama delegation was Rogelio F. brega, new chief of the national police, who was accompanied by a squad of uniformed policemen.

Aboard the same train were Arais' wife and her father, Enrique Linares, former head of the national lottery. She had no pass to cross the dock barrier and greet her husband.

Arias has maintained that he left Panama last week merely to consult an eye specialist and intended to return immediately.

Civic Chest's Appeal Is Meeting With Success

Unusually generous responses are being accorded the workers of the Twin City Community Chest, reported Walter W. Kellogg, director of the campaign, which is designed to raise a budget of $27,500 for the year 1941-1942. The money raised is to finance nine important civic agencies of Monroe and West Monroe.

Contributions reported Tuesday, the second day of a three-day campaign, were declared to be satisfactory. Those who donated in excess of $100 are the following: Interstate Natural Gas Company, Inc., $140; J. C. Penney Company, $140; Kaplan and Son, $120; W. J. Riley, $250; and A. Blumenthal, of Field's, $120.

But the large contributors were by no means all who gave of their means to this highly deserving cause. A large number of professional men and women and wage earners added their contributions which are fully as much appreciated, in some cases, even more, for oft times the gift will mean the making of some sacrifice.

It is really the smaller contributions that make a success of a project of this nature for were it not for smaller contributions, the goals set would never be realized. The sum of $27,500 is not large but in a city the size of Monroe and West Monroe it is sufficiently large to require many small gifts.

The cause presented is one that has appeal to everyone who has a heart for humanity. The chest itself is not a money-making scheme. The money received goes to the nine agencies through the chest as a mere clearing house.

Until the chest was established as a civic necessity, there were nine different drives to finance these agencies

Fair Trade Act Of Louisiana Is Declared Void

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Civil Judge Harold A. Moise today declared the fair trade act of Louisiana (act 13 of 1936) unconstitutional in a liquor distributors case in which he also denied issuance of an injunction to prevent dealers from selling whiskey below stipulated prices.

The ruling was given in the case of the Brown Forman Distilleries company seeking to restrain four defendants from selling their products at prices below those listed for a majority of New Orleans retailers with whom the distributor held contracts.

The defendant companies who attacked the stipulated agreements to which they were not parties were the American Drug Stores, Inc., the Broad Inn restaurant, Walgreen and the Royal Family Liquor store.

Judge Moise held the fair trade act violated section 14 of article XIX of the constitution of 1921, and declared:

"There need not be a monopoly for an agreement to be a contract in restraint of trade. The article of the consultion hereinabove cited seeks to prevent contracts in restraint of trade. That is one of the principle features of this law."

"Our own supreme court has settled this question in no unmistakable terms," the jurist's opinion stated.

HESS GETS SAME FOOD AS GUARDS

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Rudolf Hess, one-time No. 2 deputy of Adolf Hitler, is under guard of British noncommissioned officers "and other ranks" and gets the same rations as the guards, a reliable source said today.

He declined to say whether Hess was "living in some villa or big house," but asserted Hess "certainly is getting no pay" during his detention since he was picked up in Scotland where he bailed out of a Messerschmitt on a mysterious flight from Germany May 10.

Further inquiries as to Hess' actual whereabouts and habits were sidestepped.

Norris Says U. S. May Enter Quick War With Japan

Senator Thinks America Could Wipe Out Fleet In Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, declared today that an American-Japanese conflict in the Pacific might develop "quick as a wink" if Germany should defeat Soviet Russia, and he added he was "not so sure that war with Japan would be a bad thing for us."

The 80-year-old legislator, only remaining member who cast a Senate vote against entry into the last World war, said that a German victory over Russia might lead Japan to interfere with American shipping in the Pacific.

The United States, he asserted, would not tolerate any such interference, and he disclosed that navy officials had advised him "they could sink the Japanese fleet within two weeks."

"Although they may be a little optimistic," he said, "I believe we could lick them (the Japanese). It would be a sea and air war, and it would not be a question of sending an army.

"A navy man told me that our bombers could set the whole island ablaze in one night, because Japanese cities are built of wood and are just so much tinder."

Norris made these observations to newsmen as a Senate appropriations subcommittee started closed hearings on the House-approved $5,985,000,000 additional lease-lend appropriation, part of which may be used to help Russia.

President Roosevelt in a statement yesterday said that large amounts of supplies already were en route to Russia and that munitions promised the Soviet for October delivery—including tanks, planes and trucks—would be sent to the U. S. S. R. before the end of the month.

Congressional leaders who conferred with Mr. Roosevelt and other administration officials yesterday regarding the lease-lend bill reported that Harry Hopkins, the lease-lend supervisor, predicted that Russia would keep up

MORE OFFICERS TO LOSE POSTS

Many Already Relieved Of Commands Since Louisiana Maneuvers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A long list of field officers, ranging from second lieutenants to major-generals, have been relieved of their commands by the army since the Louisiana war games, and military quarters heard today that the early removal of numerous others was likely.

The officers who have been superseded in combat posts represent the first to feel the effect of stern war department efforts to revitalize the leadership of the land forces.

In point of numbers involved, the shakeup has been matched in army history only by the wholesale World war removals of A. E. F. officers in France.

Anxious lest morale be shaken, the war department thus far has shifted the top commanders as quietly as possible.

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, said in disclosing the original intention to remove officers deemed incapable of maintaining strict discipline and handling troops to the best advantage that it was hoped to avoid "stirring up a political mess."

Secretary Stimson has discouraged use of the term "purge" and contended that publicly identifying officers involved would be unfair.

In military quarters it was considered inevitable that the reshuffling process should be largely at the expense of national guard and reserve officers. As a class they have much less military experience than the professional regulars.

The heaviest responsibilities in the shakeup rest on General Marshall, who is guided by the recommendations of the four field army commanders and by Major-General Lesley J. McNair, who as chief of staff of army general headquarters has directed the

GREEN PLEDGES A. F. L. TO HELP BRITISH CAUSE

Says Members Will Accept Call To Arms If Found Necessary

SEATTLE, Oct. 14.—(AP)—British delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention have been assured by President William Green that A. F. L. members would support Britain's cause "to the bitter end," even if called to service from their work benches.

In his most forceful foreign policy declaration of the Federation of Labor convention, Green declared last night:

"If it becomes necessary for us to do more than work in the mines, the mills and the factories, if the call comes to give service as we have given it before, we will meet that call unitedly and courageously!

"Wherever fate may lead us, we shall stand immovable for liberty, democracy and freedom of the seas."

The delegates, who will vote, probably tomorrow, on the issue of aid to Britain and Russia, applauded Green's pledge vigorously.

Green's remarks were in response to addresses by two British and one Canadian fraternal delegates—Edward Hough and George W. Thomson of the British Trades Union congress, and H. C. Simpson of the Canadian Trades and Labor council.

The convention crowd cheered Thomson's assertion that "defeatism is unknown in England."

He and his fellow representative emphasized that British labor is "solidly, but not blindly," behind its government in the war crisis. They expressed the belief, and the demand, that a better day for laboring classes in England lay beyond the war's end as the result of social and economic readjustments in the conflict.

Another international speaker, Ingvald Haugen, president of the Norwegian Seamen's association, appealed in his native tongue to the craftsmen to hasten arms, airplanes and tanks, food and equipment to those who carry on, hasten relief to our homelands, help to strike down the shackles of fear and bondage."

He said Norway had 600 ships participating daily in the battle of the Atlantic, with 20,000 members of his union.

The important resolutions committee held the center of convention interest today. An anti-racketeering resolution may be among the committee's first reports to reach the floor.

German Advances Of 110 And 60 Miles In Two Sectors Claimed

RUSSIANS RESISTING

Soviets Report Death Of 10,000 Nazis In Three Actions

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies were credited with slashing new gains of 110 and 60 miles in two vital sectors of the 13-day-old battle for Moscow today, with Nazi vanguards reported battling only 65 miles west of the Soviet capital and long-range German siege guns in a position to shell Moscow's "outermost defense belt."

There was little gloom in Moscow itself, however.

While conceding German superiority in numbers and weight of machines, the Russians declared their resistance was growing and that Red army counter-attacks were increasing in frequency.

Thousands of Moscow civilians were reported toiling feverishly to erect chains of field fortifications around the beleaguered capital, and masses of fresh Soviet troops were hurrying to combat the Nazi juggernaut under an oath to "die here but not let the enemy into Moscow."

The German government announced that more than 3,000,000 Russian prisoners had been captured in the 16-weeks-old campaign, and that the equivalent of 300 Soviet divisions at full war strength had been captured, killed or wounded.

According to this estimate, which assumed that each division numbered 20,000 men, the Germans declared a total of 6,000,000 Russian soldiers had been put out of action.

London advices said advance German troops had reached Mozhaisk, about midway between Moscow and fallen Vyazma, but had been ejected by fiercely counter-attacking Red army forces.

Unconfirmed elsewhere, the German thrust to Mozhaisk apparently marked the closest approach to Moscow in the 13-day-old offensive.

A Berlin spokesman indicated also

HUSKY CLIMBER DIES IN STORM

Succumbs In Mountains Near Where Pamela Hollingworth Escaped

JEFFERSON, N. H., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The rugged White mountains, treacherous at this time of year, have claimed the life of a husky young man only a week after five-year-old Pamela Hollingworth came forth alive from eight days of wandering on their slopes.

Caught in a blinding snowstorm at an altitude of about 4,000 feet on Mt. Jefferson while on a mountain climbing trip, L. Carl Haberland, 26, Boston salesman, perished yesterday of exhaustion and exposure.

Experienced mountaineers rescued eight other members of his party, including two women, after three men in the group fought their way through the storm to summon aid.

The party had ascended to Mt. Jefferson's 5,725-foot peak when it encountered rain, snow and sub-freezing temperatures—a storm condition frequently occurring at this season in the Presidential range.

The combination of the storm and the rarified air felled Haberland, a climber of about two years' experience, who the day before had climbed Mt. Chocorua, 30 miles south, where the Hollingworth girl had been lost at an elevation of about 1,400 feet.

His companions attempted to carry him, but became exhausted themselves and wrapped him in a sleeping bag and placed him in the lee of a cliff.

AMERICA'S WAR METAL PROBLEM SEEMS SOLVED

Steel Used Successfully To Replace Number Of Other Alloys

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Writer)

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 14.—(AP)—America's war metal problem has reached an unexpected solution, the National Academy of Sciences was told today, one that may change some of the habits of the Amercian people.

The solution is mainly that steel will become a part in many things which have been made with other metals. There will be, as a result, a long-range effect on many products and processes of manufacture that ultimately will affect habits.

This report was made by Dr. Zay Jeffries, Cleveland chairman of the metals conservation and substitution group of the advisory committee on metals and minerals.

Steel and 18 other metals have been playing a ring-around-a-rosy game for months. In March, for example, there was a nickel shortage. Chromium, copper and vanadium took over some of nickel's alloying work.

Then a threatened aluminum shortage put a heavy burden on zinc and copper as substitutes. Next zinc fell behind and copper supplies got in a bad way. A few months ago lead was plentiful, and it took the place of copper, zinc and aluminum to such a great extent that now there is an acute lead shortage.

Wherever one metal was substituted for another, Dr. Jeffries said, a shortage resulted somewhere in the metal circle.

Steel then came to the rescue. Metallurgists found steel could do at least part of the jobs done by all the other alloying metals.

The result is the beginning of an undreamed of age of steel alloys, many of them new. Although steel, too, now is short, Dr. Jeffries said enough could be produced in time to make up for all metal deficiencies.

These new alloy steels, moreover, he said, not only make possible more war materials from a given tonnage, but will make our munitions, all along the line, superior to those of the axis powers.

There will be ample metal, he said, for the greatest defense production of all time. There will be in addition ample metal for the essential civilian services, food, heat, light, transportation, communication, water and gas.

There will be impaired metals for many civilian uses, but these impaired products will serve well in emergency. With plastics coming in to aid the metals, people can expect interesting changes.

JOHN BARRYMORE HAS LARYNGITIS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—(AP)—John Barrymore has laryngitis and it has aggravated his chronic stomach condition. But there's no reason to become alarmed, assures Dr. Hugo M. Kersten.

Barrymore went to bed yesterday and reports that he was dying spread quickly through the movie colony. That did alarm Dr. Kersten, who issued this statement:

"John Barrymore is ill of laryngitis. It has aggravated his stomach condition but he is not critical."

The physician added that Barrymore, who is at home, probably will be able to make his Thursday evening broadcast, barring complications.

The Exchange club, at its weekly luncheon at Hotel Frances Monday noon, listened to an address by Attorney Charles Titche on the subject of "Peace." He showed how peace might be gained and gave a line of action which he said in his belief would be conducive to peace.

One new member, Dr. Cecil Fryant, was admitted into membership of the club, an address of welcome being given by J. K. Blue.

BEAUTY STRESSED IN CIRCUS

They're featuring beauty this season on the Greatest Show on Earth—the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus—that will give an afternoon and night performance Wednesday on the Plum Street and Missouri Pacific Tracks grounds and here's proof. Ringling Show To Arrive Early Wednesday Morning

First Of Four Trains To Roll Into Siding Here At Dawn

It may arrive early or it may arrive a little late, but the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, traveling on its four long, silver-enameled trains, is due to roll onto the Missouri Pacific railroad sidings here tomorrow before many o fthe body politic have been able to wrench themselves from their early morning period of slumber. The first of the Big Show's trains is due at dawn. On board the second section is the world's most publicized gorilla couple, Mr. and Mrs. Gargantua the Great, who greatly enjoy their morning snoozes, and who will receive the public Wednesday in their futuristic, poleless tent, designed for them by Norman Bel Geddes, of New York World's Fair Futurama fame. The gorilla canvas bungalow is, of course, part of the menagerie, as has been, and is, the horse fair tent.

Immediately after the arrival of the first and succeeding trains, the 50 elephants will unload them and the motorized fleet will haul wild animal cages and baggage wagons to the circus grounds on Plum street and Missouri Pacific tracks, where performances will start at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m. tomorrow, with doors to the radically restyled menagerie open at 1 and 7 p.m. Once the colorful cavalcade begins rolling toward the lot, the huge tents will balloon skyward, and the cookhouse, the menagerie, the horse fair and the big top will be beehives of activity. There'll be lots to see as the big troupe of 1,600 people and 1,265 animals goes about the tasks actually necessary.

The performances are inaugurated this year by an equestrian trooping of the colors. So costly and vital to the complete enjoyment of the circus is the new fairyland fantasy, "Old King Cole and Mother Goose," a spectacular pageant the like of which has never been seen in this country before, that John Ringling North has spotted it in the performance to follow the three great Alfred Court groups of performing wild animals, with Polar bears, lions, tigers, spotted leopards, Himalayan bears, black jaguars, leopards and panthers, Kodiac bears, pumas, cougars, giant ocelots and Great Dane dogs working simultaneously together in three huge, steel arenas.

Thus, late-covers will not miss the big event of the day, which this bringing to life of the beloved characters of the nursery rhymes, "Old King Cole and Mother Goose," designed and costumed by Norman Bel Geddes, staged by Albertina Rasch and produced by John Ringling North, must be termed.

It will be hard to get some people out of the Norman Bel Geddes restyled menagerie, with its masked-in, illuminated cages, which have painted backgrounds, depicting the habitats of the wild animals displayed, with its raised platform for giraffes, with its "monkey mountain" and its feature of features, the connecting cages of Mr. and Mrs. Gargantua the Great. Many people will linger until the show has well begun, so it is well that "Old King Cole and Mother Goose" be withheld until the stragglers are all comfortably seated in the air-conditioned big top.

But to return to the performance.

Elly Ardelty, radiant Polish aerialiste, who reminds the world of the immortal Leitzel, stars in the new Birdland Aerial Ballet, stunningly costumed by Max Weldy of Paris. Elly's sensational flying trapeze offering, with its terrific climax, is introduced by a startling Norman Bel Geddes production ten-strike. Audiences will not soon forget Elly and this fantastically lovely all-girl display, with its tremendous new lighting effects.

The horse is king again in the Big Show program. The high school display, headed by Visconde Roberto de Vasconcellos, the former Portuguese and Spanish bullfighter and first horseman of Europe, is beautifully costumed in the fashion of the Gibson Girl era, and among the equipages featured are Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's open brake, with the hackneys drawing it in August Belmont's famous harness; the victoria driven to the first Kentucky Derby by the mayor of Louisville; New York's celebrated "24th Street Wagon," in which millionaires rode to the horse market on that street in the gay '90s and the Ringling horse show surreys and light wagons. The Konyot-Aseveras troupe on its Arabian horses and 40 beautiful girls, magnificently mounted, add to the glamour of this enthralling number. New and striking liberty horse acts, trained and presented by Roberto de Vasconcellos, Tex Elmlund and Otto Konyot, lift the equine appeal to unprecented heights.

From South America are European acts that John Ringling North sent out of the war zones when he was engaging top European talent in England, France and Belgium early in 1940, among them the DeOcas, aerial trampoline artists; the three great Diego-Fernandez troupes of aerial sensationalists; the Shyrettos, novelty bicyclists, the Los Navarros duo of daredevils who slide from the top of the tent to the ground standing upright on a taut steel wire, and Mlle. Erica, daring centaurette, who rides Roman standing on two horses while maneuvering an eight-horse hitch at a gallop in intricate formations.

Prominent among the stellar offerings are: Massimilliano Truzzi, the dynamic, spectacular juggling sensation; Adrianna and Charly, bounding rockets and comics of the trampoline net; the Wolthings, lofty trapeze marvels; the Akimotos, whirlwind acrobats, and other European novelty aerial headliners, headed by La Louisa, flying trapeze pinwheel.

Other world famous star presentations are the great Riding Cristiani family, with Lucio and Belmonte, in exciting new bareback feats; the mighty Yacopis; world's foremost springboard somersaulting troupe; Hubert Castle, unrivalled artist of the tight wire; Albert Powell, contortionistic marvel on the flying trapeze; the Gauchos and the Davises, renowned teeterboard somersaulters, and the three internationally famed Flying Concello troupes, with Antoinette Concello, the greatest girl flier of all time.

Doors to the radically restyled menagerie, the horse fair tent, the poleless ultra-modern top of Mr. and Mrs. Gargantua the Great and the big top are open at 1 and 7 p.m. daily.

For the convenience of the public, tickets are on sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Liggett's Drug store, as well as at the show grounds.

GEESE WAIT AS HE GETS GUN, SHELLS

LAKE PARK, Minn., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Dewey Herfindal, Lake Park farmer, tells this one.

While plowing on his farm near here he saw a large flock of wild geese in the field.

He jumped from his tractor and ran to get his shotgun, but discovered the gun had been loaned to a neighbor.

So he went to the neighbor's and got the gun. Then he found he had no shells.

He climbed into his car and drove to Lake Park to get shells. Then he remembered that he had no hunting license.

So he got both the shells and a hunting license and returned to his farm.

And shot three of the geese.

STRIKE STAGED BY ORCHESTRA

Musicians Refuse To Play Unless Concert Season Extended

DETROIT, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Bruno Walter cooled his heels in his hotel suite today, a guest conductor with a baton but no orchestra.

Eighty others in the orchestra had staged a walkout.

When Walter, here to conduct the Detroit Symphony orchestra in its opening concert of the season Thursday night, arrived at Masonic temple yesterday for the first rehearsal, he was greeted by a lone bass fiddler.

While Walter sought an explanation the orchestra members met in nearby club rooms of the Detroit Federation of Musicians and vowed there would be no more rehearsals unless the 21-week symphony season was extended.

Said Orchestra Manager Murray G. Paterson, "It might be described as a musical discord."

Paterson, who declared an extension of the season was financially impossible, took a hopeful view of the situation.

"I'm sure the matter soon will be adjusted," he said.

But, said Fred T. Murphy, president of the Detroit Symphony society, the orchestra's action "may well mean the end of the Detroit Symphony."

Both sides were cautious not to call the dispute a strike inasmuch as c tracts with members of the orche have not yet been signed.

Nevertheless, the impasse seen likely to force cancellation of concert unless a compromise is s reached.

The 21-week season has been in fect since 1933. Prior to that time was 23 weeks.

"We feel that a 21-week season not enough," said a federation spok man. "We are willing to listen to offer of more than 21 weeks. As matter stands now, no rehearsal teen scheduled and none will called."

The Detroit Symphony, suppor by subscription, was founded in 1 The late Ossip Gabrilowitsch was conductor from 1918 to his death 1935. Franco Ghione followed in 1 Its conductor now is Victor Kola

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

Berlin's announcement this morning that German artillery now is within reach of the outermost defenses of Moscow gives a grim notification that the capital of all the Russias is at last under siege.

This doesn't mean that the twenty-seven square miles of the ancient metropolis are actually within range of Hitler's big guns, for the outer ring of the defenses may be from seventy-five to a hundred miles from the heart of the city, and even more in some cases. It does mean that the fate of Moscow is in the melting-pot and the flames burn fiercely.

The Germans are continuing to fling everything they have into this supreme effort and heavy fighting is reported all along the Moscow front. The Nazi strategy would appear to be encirclement of the capital, and in pursuit of this they are striking not only directly eastward, but from points to the north and south of this central line.

The Muscovites are resisting stubbornly, and the Nazi thrust appears to have been slowed down somewhat. However, a measure of the power being poured into this effort by the Germans is seen in the report from an authoritative source in London that Nazi units, driving at the capital from the southwest, had reached Mozhaisk, only sixty-five miles from Moscow on the main highway to Smolensk.

The Reds are said to have flung the invaders back at this point. The appearance of the enemy so close to Moscow, however, is a matter of grave concern for the defense.

The Bolshevists are continuing to fall back slowly, with heavy rear-guard actions, to prepared positions where they are awaited by fresh reserves. So far as can be judged from the very incomplete official reports, the Reds appear to have achieved their withdrawals in an orderly manner, indicating a lack of panic.

All in all, the Russians would seem to be presenting a fighting front of much strength. That being so, their resistance may be expected to stiffen now that the Germans are close to the gates of the capital. The defenses of Moscow are said to be powerful, but that is another of those Muscovite mysteries which only time will bare to the outside world.

That the Germans are out to make a quick killing before winter catches them there is no doubt. As this is written there comes over my news printer a Moscow bulletin saying that great mechanized battles are taking place west of the capital, with the Nazis trying to smash through the Russian barriers.

Much hangs on the defense of Moscow. If Hitler captures this first city of the Russian empire, the moral effect in favor of Germany will be great and widespread. How it might react within Russia itself remains to be seen.

Lease-Lend Supervisor Harry Hopkins, who has just returned from Moscow, says he believes the Russians will be able to maintain an effective resistance even if they have to establish a temporary capital east of Moscow. There can be no question that the Russian people would suffer a heavy shock in losing their capital. However, as this column has insisted, the only thing which can knock the Soviet clear out of the war is a collapse of morale, and we have seen no signs of this so far.

President Roosevelt, Hopkins and Edward R. Stettinius, lease-lend administrator, are said to have agreed in conference yesterday that Germany couldn't but be weakened by the present campaign. That, of course, is one of the important facts growing out of the Russo-German war.

The Nazi losses in men and equipment have been colossal, and the heavy Russian losses are no compensation. There is nothing which Hitler has achieved thus far in his Russian campaign which would offset those losses, or so it seems to me.

If the fuehrer can knock the Reds out, and get control of vast supplies of oil and other essentials, well and good for him. Unless he does succeed in doing this, however, he will have lost more than he has gained, and he will have established a fighting front at the German rear.

SAY BIG GUNS READY TO FIRE UPON DEFENSES

that Nazi columns had encircled Kaluga, 100 miles south of Moscow, and rolled on, leaving Soviet forces there to be mopped up by German rear-guards. If true, this would mean that the Germans already had advanced more than half the distance from Bryansk, the scene of much of the heaviest fighting, to the U. S. S. R. capital.

The Germans asserted that still another Nazi column moving down on Moscow from the Valdai hills to the northwest was nearing the Moscow-Leningrad railway.

No amplification was forthcoming on the report that German siege guns were now in a position to shell Moscow's outer perimeter of defenses. Normally, field guns have a range under 25 miles, but German "Big Berthas" during the World War bombarded Paris from a distance of more than 75 miles.

The Russians, reporting a vast slaughter of the invaders, admitted the fall of strategic Vyazma, 125 miles west of Moscow, but declared the German offensive was slackening before growing Red army resistance in that sector.

Soviet front-line dispatches pictured a series of gigantic mechanized battles raging over the fields west of Moscow, with the Germans hurling tanks and motorized infantry from one sector to another in an effort to find soft spots.

Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said the Germans had been thrown back 10 miles in one sector, and other Soviet reports told of the death of 10,000 Nazis in three actions.

Dispatches to Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, indicated that Russian warplanes were now gaining superiority above the vast and chaotic battlefield after the Germans for a time seemed to be getting control of the skies. In the past few days "the situation has changed," the reports said.

Massed German air attacks so far have failed to disrupt the railway network feeding reserves and supplies to the front, Izvestia said, adding:

"Our transport is functioning without a hitch."

Military advices reaching London said the battle was intensifying in fury, and gave this sector-by-sector summary:

1. Orel (210 miles south of Moscow): "The Germans are attacking in great strength, but the Russians appear to be holding them at present."

2. Bryansk (210 miles southwest of Moscow): "The situation is obscure, although reports from Moscow indicate the Russians have the situation in hand."

3. On the Roslav-Moscow axis: "The Germans appear to have advanced on a narrow front and in great strength. Their advance units reached Mozhaisk but were ejected by the Russians and heavy fighting is continuing."

4. From the Valdai hills: "The German drive toward Rzhev (140 miles northwest of Moscow) appears to be making some progress."

German front-line reports said Red forces trapped in the Vyazma sector were "nearly annihilated" that more than 350,000 prisoners had been taken in the Vyazma-Bryansk battles, and that Russians fleeing the Bryansk region had taken to forests and fields to dodge the attacks of Nazi dive bombers.

Vyazma an agricultural center of about 40,000 population 125 miles west of Moscow, changed hands as Orel and Bryansk had previously, wrecked by bombs, shells and fire.

Moscow observers described traffic upon the Moscow-Vyazma highway in a midway area as orderly, with military movements both to and from the front. Dispatches from the fighting zone declared the German attacks had been slowed.

A Soviet communique said 6,000 Germans were killed or wounded in one sector alone yesterday, and told of the destruction of 84 German tanks, 190 trucks and 27 field guns.

From other sources also came statistics on combat losses.

The British Broadcasting Company quoted "latest reports from the front," declared 160,000 Germans had been killed and 450,000 wounded in the 13-day offensive.

Germans asserted that vast battles of encirclement had led to the capture of almost 3,000,000 Russians so far in the war and reported that on one sector of the central front offensive aerial raiders had destroyed eight fully loaded Russian trains and set fire to 329 motor trucks.

While major Russian interest centered on the battles before Moscow, the Soviet radio reported Red marines had landed successfully on the Gulf of Finland coast in the rear of German troops besieging Leningrad.

Berlin commentators, however, dismissed action in the Leningrad zone with declaration that the days of the northern Soviet forces were numbered.

Britain maintained aerial pressure upon Germany, raiding western objectives of the Reich overnight for the fourth consecutive night in an around-the-clock offensive intended to destroy factories and supply lines which bolster the Nazi drive against Russia.

German spokesmen acknowledged a small number of civilian casualties and said two night raiders were downed.

A few bombs were dropped upon Britain, a London communique said, but caused only slight damage.

Neutral Portugal lost a merchant ship in the warfare at sea.

Sinking of the 2,044-ton Portuguese steamer Corte Real by a German submarine was disclosed at Lisbon last night after her six passengers and crew of 36 were landed by a trawler. The undersea raider had towed their lifeboats close to the coast to facilitate rescue.

Captain Jose Narciso Marques said the Corte Real, 24 hours out of Oporto with a cargo of tungsten ore, cork, canned fish and Swiss watches for the United States, was sent to the bottom by a torpedo Sunday after opening of the seacocks by a boarding party and shelling from a deck gun failed to sink her. Among the passengers was an American physician, Dr. Charles Cant Buffinger, 26.

The London admiralty said British submarines had sunk two merchant ships and forced a third aground in action against Axis supply lines throughout the Mediterranean.

In Washington, Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, declared that if Germany should defeat Russia an American-Japanese war might develop in the Pacific and added he was "not so sure that war with Japan would be a bad thing for us."

Making his observations as a Senate appropriations committee started closed hearings on the House-approved $5,985,000,000 additional lease-lend appropriation, Norris said the United States would not tolerate any Japanese interference with American shipping in the Pacific. He said naval officials had advised him "they could sink the Japanese fleet within two weeks."

CROP CONDITIONS IN STATE FAVORABLE

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Louisiana cooperative crop reporting service said today in its monthly survey that conditions during September were generally favorable for the maturing and harvesting of crops, though rains interrupted harvest in some instances and temperatures were too high for the best development of sugar cane and fall truck crops.

The tropical storm, which passed mostly to the south and west of Louisiana, did varying amounts of damage to the state, according to H. H. Schutz, agricultural statistician.

Cotton has opened rapidly, and good progress has been made in picking the extremely short crop, he reported. Early corn produced a fair yield; the late crop was poor, he added. Threshing of rice was reported progressing slowly because of successive rains since harvest began, and some shock damage occurred.

Sugar cane was said to have made excellent progress during September after beneficial rains fell. The crop, however, is unusually green and cool weather is needed to hasten maturity. Sweet potato harvest is under way with prospects for a fair crop although there is rank vine growth, reducing yields to some extent.

Soybeans and cowpeas were reported suffering heavy damage from caterpillars and other pests. Dry weather and scale have reduced the citrus crop but remaining fruit was reported sizing well with good quality expected. Pecans have produced a very short crop.

FIFTY MINISTERS BUILDING CHURCH

BURBANK, Calif., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Fifty ministers of Southern California Christian churches are busy with hammers and saws building a church to serve an area of 1,000 new homes occupied largely by aircraft workers.

"When the church is completed it will go to its minister and congregation debt free," said Rev. John Wells, serving as straw boss.

It was indicated the court would be in session about a week, with Judge Dawkins presiding during the entire session. Petit jurors have been summoned to appear in court Wednesday and naturalization proceedings are scheduled for Friday afternoon.

The court opened Monday, with the scheduled empaneling of the grand jury being postponed until Tuesday in observance of Columbus day. Probation cases were disposed of Monday, judgment was rendered in two cases and ruling on a civil motion was deferred.

In cases involving confirmation of default, judgment was rendered in favor of the government against J. M. Jarrell in one case and Sammie Huckaby et al in another. Ruling of a motion to dismiss and an alternative motion to strike in the case of E. L. O'Neal, administrator of succession of Carey J. O'Neal, versus the United Gas Public Service company and the Union Producing company was deferred.

Cecil Andrew Loyd is slated for trial Wednesday on a charge of receiving property stolen from the United States. Loyd is alleged to have received 894 pounds of concrete mattress anchor cable stolen from the government in Tensas parish about April 1 of last year. The Union Oil Mill company, Inc., also is scheduled to face trial Wednesday on a charge of violating the food and drug act.

Other cases on the trial docket are as follows: Thursday, United States versus Hardy White in one case, and Joe Reed Futch in another, violations of liquor laws; Friday, United States versus Ollie Morehead, violations of liquor laws and assaulting a federal officer.

MUSIC FEATURED AT REVIVAL HERE

The Gordon Avenue Methodist church revival had a large assemblage present Monday night to hear the message of Dr. Harney, when he discussed "Confession." Mrs. Ruth Hoskins sang a solo, "Marvelous Grace."

The evening service Tuesday will start at 7:30 p.m. A feature will be a solo by Miss Dorothy Gish of Chicago.

R. M. DOWNING IS OUT OF ARMY LIFE

Raymond M. Downing, who was formerly with Downing Studio, Monroe, which he left to join the 162nd Signal Photographic company at Camp Robinson, Ark., a newly-created army unit, was one of 14 men discharged because they were more than 28 years of age.

Young Downing hastened to return to his home in Monroe, and the other 13 men are said to have lost no time in donning civilian togs and hurrying back to their respective homes.

the purpose of securing that dismissal even against the recommendation of the president of the University of Georgia and the chancellor of the university system."

Talmadge, informed of the conference committee's action, said "no outside influence in the United States or on the face of the earth can discredit the University of Georgia." He asserted that he believed "the majority of those voting to discredit the University of Georgia are in favor of co-education of the blacks and the whites."

The Southern University conference, organized in Atlanta in 1935 to promote excellence in scholarship in the graduate field and in the upper classes of undergraduate work, has power only to drop the university from its list. Vice-Chancellor Alexander Guerry of the University of the South, who headed the investigating committee, also is a member of a group appointed by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to probe charges of political interference in the Georgia state education system. The Southern association could remove Georgia from its accredited list.

PILEDRIVER KILLED

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Honore Labourdette, 50, a piledriver at the Louisiana Shipyards, Inc., was killed accidentally today when struck by a piece of sheet piling being hoisted by a crane and knocked into a canal. Dr. J. T. Scott, chief surgeon for the Delta Shipbuilding corporation, said death was caused by a compound skull fracture.

The Return To Barbarism

In the months just before Europe was plunged into World war II, every responsible statesman in the world said that if the war were allowed to happen the whole continent might return to barbarism. Even some of the less responsible statesmen, including Hitler, recognized that.

The war Hitler felt he must have anyway has been sweeping across Europe for more than two years now, and it seems measurably close to achieving the predicted result.

These things come one by one. Lest we be beguiled by their piecemeal advent into forgetting them, let us review a few things which this war has brought.

First, the entire fabric of honorable relations by treaty has been sadly damaged, and must at some time be laboriously rewoven. The black and calculated treachery with which Hitler has repudiated treaties and the given word, time after time, and according to an avowed policy to keep no treaty any longer than it is to his advantage to do so, has sadly shaken throughout the world, and temporarily destroyed in Europe, men's faith in pledges. That is a long step toward barbarism.

Second, the killing in their beds of innocent women and children has been accepted as a normal means of carrying on war. This has happened in war before, but never has been generally accepted. Today it is so accepted, as the fruit of the development of the bomber and the readiness to use it indiscriminately against civilian populations. That is a step toward barbarism.

Third, restrictions on sea warfare aimed at protection of non-combatanis and of ordinary neutral trade, have been thrown overboard. The kaiser started it; in the first week of this war Hitler took over where he left off, with the sinking of the Athenia; now "spurlos versenkt" is the rule he attempts to impose on the whole world. And that is barbarism.

Fourth, the slaughter of helpless hostages in revenge for acts of resistance in which they had no part was a practice which aroused indignation when the American Indians infrequently practiced it. Now it has become a regular tactic and technique for the holding down of conquered populations. When the Duke of Alva slaughtered his thousands of innocents in the Netherlands, the people of 400 years ago denounced him as a beast and a barbarian. Today nasty little pig-eyed gauleiters are doing the same thing all over Europe. We have returned to what?

Populations are being uprooted and transferred bodily to unwished-for regions; millions are doing forced labor for the German Fuehrer; whole countries have been looted of their food and then informed that they must "cooperate" or starve. Education has been stifled and freedom handcuffed across the length and breadth of the whole continent.

If all this doesn't come pretty close to the predicted barbarism it will do until real barbarism comes along.

NEW YORK—I ran into Jeb Glib on Broadway the other night. It was the first time I had seen him since the Hauptmann trial. I glanced hastily into his peepers to see if his glass eye was still intact. It was. That eye was a spell-binder. Jeb used to exhibit it without warning, just to hold the crowd's interest.

I said, "Jeb, how's the hobbies?"

Hobbies were meat and bread to him. They were to Jeb what winning friends and influencing people is to Dale Carnegie. Any man who didn't have a hobby was no good in Jeb's book. "Look in the penitentiaries and you will see men who didn't know what to do with themselves," Jeb says. Jeb always contended that the absence of hobby-interest in a man was a sign of depravity.

One night I heard him deliver one of his pet lectures in Greenwich Village. The lecture was free. Of course, if you wanted to drop a quarter in the old hat, that was another matter. It was at this meeting I got my first glimpse of Jeb's glass eye. He paused in the middle of one of his harangues and removed it. The audience was stunned. Jeb studied the eye critically with his one good pepper and hauled out a hankie and gave the phoney orb a vigorous shining. Then he crammed it back into place and continued his lecture. From there in you could have heard a rumor drop. Men and women stared at Jeb as in a trance. They were not enchanted by the flow of his ideas, which were many and picturesque. They were horrified by his glass eye.

"It never fails," Jeb said, "Show 'em the eye—and they're yours as long as you want 'em."

I made a careful note of Jeb's natty attire. He was garbed in the best tradition of I-follow-the-horses. The suit he wore was a gray-green check. From his rather high collar exploded a violent red bow tie. He wore tan yellow shoes that buttoned up the side. Not many people turned to stare at him as we esauntered along. You see a lot of freaks on Broadway, and the crowd probably figured he was a ballyhoo man, advertising an act.

I said, "Jeb, it's none of my business, and I don't want to be personal—but where in the world did you find those shoes?"

"Eighth avenue," said Jeb Glib. "It gets 'em every time. Walk down the street in these—and they're yours as long as you want 'em."

Per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages in the United States was approximately 13.96 gallons between July 1, 1940, and June 30, 1941.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—Horatio Alger, Jr., literary champion of the under-dog, would have found ideal material in the phenomenal rise of the Republic Pictures corporation. In five years, that studio has mush-roomed from obscurity to affluence and power—and the same wiseacres who used to sneer when it was mentioned now shake bewildered heads and wonder when the growth will stop.

Economical production methods and maximum entertainment value—those have been the Republic formulae. With the major studios concentrating on big-name stars, sensational exploitation, lavish sets, ultra-expensive stories and chain theater control, Republic chucked those Hollywood "musts" over as excess cargo and reduced picture-making to its essentials—good stories, satisfactory actors and intelligent direction. They've spent their money for ability, not for fame.

Instead of aiming at the big city audiences some producers consider representative of America, they've turned out clean, wholesome, down-to-earth entertainment for the despised "sticks"—which happen to constitute about 70 per cent of the movie market. And their financial record has made monkeys out of the smart-alecky critics who pan everything that lacks Cafe Society luster.

You've heard a lot of talk recently about the "Big Five" of the movie industry. That figure will have to be revised if Republic continues its present policies and theater owners are on their toes. Hollywood will soon have a "Big Six"—and one of the biggest will be the once little studio that used to be the target of so many sneers.

Spencer Tracy has dropped Broadway play ideas in favor of a South American tour. . . . Hear tell W. C. Fields will make a farewell stage appearance in Billie Burke's revived "Ziegfeld Follies." . . . Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

LEARNING REQUIRES EXPRESSION

Most teachers talk too much in the classroom. If at any given moment in the day you were to ask, "Who is talking now in that classroom, the teacher or a pupil?" a person would be more often right than wrong to say, "The teacher." It is natural enough, but it is too bad. Learning needs expression to complete its process in the mind, and the best possible expression for most of the academic subjects in a school is oral language, speech.

When one remembers how many pupils there are in the usual elementary school, and how long it would take for each to say what he ought, in his learning process, to say aloud, in his own words, in his own habit of speech, it becomes clearer to our understanding when we puzzle over why the teacher does the talking. There is scant time for anybody else. Yet that time ought to be found because it is necessary for children to talk to their companions and to their teachers to express what they think they know, discover in the telling what they do not know, and clarify their ideas about the matter in hand.

It is necessary to do this. Better teach less and get back more than to cover the text book and allow the pupils no chance to talk things over. Once the teacher recognizes this necessity she will provide for it if the supervisor will aid and not hinder her efforts.

The supervisor would not wish to hinder but—there is always that but—"We must cover the course of study. At this rate you won't get half way through, I know, but I can't help it. We have to cover the course and we have to pass the city tests. You'll just have to hurry along and test as you go."

So the teachers hurry along and they test as they go. That means every few days or so questions are written or handed the pupils and they write the answers to the questions as well as they can. They have not had the chance to talk out the answers, straighten out their ideas, get things clearly in mind by saying aloud what they vaguely remember.

Saying things out loud in an effort to make others understand is the best way imaginable to clear our minds and memorize the facts. But school children rarely have that opportunity. There are too many of them and there is too much ground to be covered for the examinations, so they have to write down what they know before it is half known and only ill-remembered.

What to do about it? Cover less ground and do it better. Leave out a lot of the useless facts that we have to dwell on now, such as dates and outmoded tables and processes and rules. Take the heart out of the lesson and hand it to the pupils and let them go on from there. What they think about a point is more important than the information in the fact because thinking recreates the child's mind; memorization only pads it.

To give the children a chance to talk instead of the teachers we would have to revise the course, the programs and schedules. But would that be too much to ask since the process might allow the teacher to do what she longs to do, bring growth to her pupils' minds?

If you find it difficult to get your boy or girl to mind, the fault is probably yours. Send for Angelo Patri's booklet, "Obedience," enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care the Monroe News-Star, Postoffice Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

(Second of two articles about the automobile situation.)

WASHINGTON—The big decrease in automobile production is going to send people to the used car lots who never have been there before.

The demand that is expected to develop for used cars may sharpen the practices of those dishonest dealers which fringe the second-hand business.

There are, in Washington, two national agencies which have made a study of the used car trade and the dishonesties which some resort to in putting over a deal. There is almost no limit to trickery and no rules that could guarantee every buyer against being gypped.

There are, however, a few rules which if followed cut your chances of getting stung. Here they are as they were given to me by these same agencies:

No car should be bought without a road test, and "road test" doesn't mean a drive around the block. The car should be driven far enough (50 to 100 miles) to get really hot, and to test the consumption of oil and gas. Start with both gas and oil at "full." Drive through traffic and rough roads. If the car is a gas eater or an oil hog, trouble already has started.

If a cold engine starts with a slapping noise and quiets down, the pistons are loose. If it idles excessively fast, it is possible that the motor has been "revved up" to cover mechanical irregularities.

Doctored Motors

A clutch that grabs on the getaway or slips on a speedup is in bad shape. Brakes should be tested on a brake machine, but if none is available, make "slam" stops at from 25 or 30 miles an hour, and examination of skid marks will tell most of the story.

When the car is hot, put it up to the limit allowed by law and then take your foot off the accelerator and let the car "push" the engine until you have dropped to about 20 miles an hour. Then step hard on the accelerator. If blue smoke comes out of the exhaust it indicates worn pistons, rings and cylinder walls. If the smoke changes from blue to black as you gain speed, the carburetor mixture is too rich, a stunt sometimes resorted to by sharp dealers to soften the explosions and hide engine noise. A clattering noise during this speed-up indicates loose connecting rods, and a heavy thumping may mean a loose main bearing or fly wheel.

Tires Tell A Story

Don't go by speedometers as an assurance of mileage. Examine the wear on the brake, clutch and accelerator pedals and on the tires. A car with several makes of tires in various stages of wear probably has been out 20,000 miles or more. An appraisal of the tires by a good man might tell a lot.

Check the battery by using the starter and horn while the lights are on. If they go very dim, the battery probably is in bad order.

Many of these things could be corrected by a competent mechanic. That's up to your horse-trading ability.

Watch your step on guarantees. A "money back guarantee" has been known to mean simply a credit on a more expensive car and maybe a bigger gyp. "New car guarantees" literally cover only defects in workmanship and materials and have nothing to do with worn parts or defects developed by abuse.

Go over your time payment or even cash contracts and make sure the title is good.

If you have done all that, say my informants, and are as sharp as a tack to boot, you probably will get what you paid for, whether it's a $50 puddle-jumper or a latest model that had rolled only a thousand miles before its owner up and died.

2 MONROYANS HURT IN HIGHWAY CRASH

Two Monroe residents were injured about 6:30 p.m. Monday when the automobile in which they were riding was side-swiped by another car near Sicily Island, the attending physician at the Ferriday hospital reported.

The injured, Mrs. Annie Mae Gattis, 1702 North Fourth street, employe of the Ouachita parish department of public welfare, and Noel Learned, son of Mrs. Marion Learned, 111 Hilton street, were rushed to the Ferriday hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Gattis sustained a broken pelvis and Learned a cerebral concussion and bruises to the head, the attending physician said, adding that the injuries were not serious. A third passenger in the car, Miss Mary Hayward, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Hayward, 301 College avenue, was uninjured, the physician said.

They were returning from Baton Rouge where they visited Miss Emalie Gattis, daughter of Mrs. Gattis, a student at Louisiana State university.

The largest realty transfer here recently was consummated yesterday when the Monroe Furniture company transferred to the Biedenharn Realty company, the old J. A party of hunters left West Monroe late yesterday for the fastnesses of the Tensas swamps intent on bagging big game. They stated that they would not return until they had landed at least one big bear and bear steak has been promised to their numerous friends. The party comprised L. L. FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter 21

Mother Takes A Hand

MRS. BARINGTON, with some vague sense of uneasiness, dispensed with breakfast in bed, dispensed with breakfast entirely, as a matter of fact, as a tribute to the number of cocktails she'd had the night before. Not that Mrs. Barington ever was guilty of over-indulgence. But cocktails had an unpleasant tendency to add curves to a figure already inclined to plumpness. She walked out to a bench on the lawn where Freda was sitting staring at the sea with unusual seriousness. She studied her daughter for a moment. There was something different about Freda.

"You know, Freda," she finally said with her usual directness, "I'm not too pleased about last night."

"What do you mean, Mother? Last night?" Freda seemed to be coming out of a dream.

"You know very well what I mean, Freda. You're letting that little local girl get away with murder and, incidentally, with Jerry Winthrope."

"So what?" Freda asked quietly.

"So do something about it. And don't use that sort of language to me!"

"I didn't mean to offend you, Mother." Freda turned to her mother with respectful attention. "It was just that I was wondering what a girl could do when a man found he loved someone else?"

"What are you talking about?"

"About Jerry and Pam Quellerton," Freda answered very calmly, as if she had faced the thing for so long that there was no more surprise about it.

"Freda, please put what you're trying to say into simple English! I'm in no mood for conundrums this morning."

"Jerry's in love with her, Mother, in love with Pam Quellerton." Freda spoke without any dramatic emphasis. The expression of her mother's face startled her. "Well, don't look like that," she said quickly. "It's happened before. And it'll probably happen again. I mean, men have found someone else after giving rings and making promises. And after all, Jerry never made any promises. We asked for this, you and I. I can remember that day at the jeweler's as if it were yesterday. And it isn't a very pleasant memory. I didn't really mean to, but I tricked him into something—I and the circumstances."

"Freda, you're behaving like a fool!" Mrs. Barington's voice was the one discordant note in a perfect setting. The sea, out beyond the gold of the sand, was a clear turquoise. Lawns, sweeping in all directions around them, were soft green velvet, set with the fragrant jewels of flower gardens. Trees made lovely patterns of light and shade. Mrs. Barington went on: "If you're telling me that you and Jerry are breaking up, I won't have it. I won't, I say!"

Freda turned to her mother, a question in her eyes.

"You can't embarrass me this way, Freda. I won't let you do this to me."

"I think it would be more embarrassing to try to hold a man against his will."

"You're talking like an idiot! No man ever wants to get married. It's a woman's business to make him think he does. And then, after it's all over, it always turns out all right. They not only put up with it; they like it."

New Idea

"MOTHER, forgive me, but that's dark-age talk. Besides, I have the feeling that I'm doing something decent and thoughtful and generous for a change. And you've no idea what a nice feeling it is. I think Pam deserves Jerry. She'll make something of him. I need a man who's made something of himself."

They were silent for a moment. Then Freda continued thoughtfully:

"I haven't got it in my hands, this potter's clay and sculptor sort of stuff, when it comes to human beings. It's a little too big a job for me. I'm not interested in making the effort. But Pam is."

Mrs. Barington stared at her daughter thoughtfully. There was something too definite, too final to argue further with. She asked finally:

"Has he asked you for the ring?"

"No. As a matter of fact, he's told me to keep that—just as a gift."

"That's nice." It came very sweetly from Mrs. Barington as she looked out over the water where bathers were bright dots on the scene.

Freda laughed. "Mother, you're too transparent for words. Too, too delightful!"

"What do you mean?"

"Nothing, darling! Nothing at all!"

And then it was like Toni Barington to say:

"I noticed that good-looking young doctor from the naval station gave you a rush at the party. Is he nice? Do you like him, Freda?"

"I think he's an exceptionally nice man," Freda said seriously, but inwardly she was smiling because she knew exactly what was in her mother's mind. Mrs. Barington was happiest when she was engineering a romance. Freda knew Doctor Leo Shore would have to watch his step, or his next one would land him right into the middle of an alliance, the mechanism of which had been set in motion by the skillful Mrs. Barington.

Freda made a mental note that she, too, would have to watch her step, for this time it would have to be right. She had looked with some envy on Pam's courtship. It must be nice to sit back and let love come to you without any scheming of your own.

Proposal

DOCTOR LEO SHORE had formed a habit of early morning walking. He was safe in leaving the post at that time, when crises were generally over and patients were getting their best sleep. On the morning after the party on the Winthrope yacht his walk had a special purpose. He circled around through the park at the end of Division Street. Finally he turned in at the gate in the Quellerton picket fence.

"Leo!" There was a glad note in Pam's voice. "You're just in time for breakfast."

Melita, in the kitchen, heard the young doctor's voice accepting Pam's invitation. Her eyes warmed with a smile. Leo would make a perfect master for the big Quellerton house some day. She put three more eggs in the pan. Leo was big and husky. His appetite would be that way, too. More guava jelly was put in the old glass dish, and extra bread went into the toaster to brown.

It was apparent that there were things on young Shore's mind that morning, something more than the charm of his young hostess as he looked across at Pam in her crisp print dress. He tried to put his thoughts into words as they stood under the big pepper tree near the gate.

"Pam"—he was looking at her earnestly—"my trip to Washington had to do with a transfer next spring. I'm to go to the post in Panama. I'm to be chief surgeon there. I'd like to arrive there with my bride. Will I, Pam? You can tell me the answer to that." When she didn't answer immediately, he asked: "Pam, will you marry me before I go?"

Pamela Quellerton knew that through all of the rest of her life she would never be called on to make a more important decision; never would she be asked to answer a question that would mean so much in the shaping of her future. Steady, dependable Leo. Brilliant, capable Leo.

Her brain said definitely yes. But her heart was strangely silent. She was reminded of an old Turkish saying of her grandfather—he had probably picked it up in some foreign port or from some member of his crew: "Live with the head, but marry with the heart."

Marry with the heart. Could she do that? Could her head and her heart disagree on so important a matter? Leo was everything an intelligent girl could want in the man she married.

He had charm and personality, a worthwhile purpose in life, the right ideals. Yet, when she thought of saying yes, it was Jerry's name that followed. It was Jerry's name that whispered in her heart.

"Pam, you know I love you," Leo was saying. "I think I've been telling you that all my life. And I'll want to tell it to you all the rest of my life in all of the ways I can think of."

"Leo"—Pam's voice was low—"I wish I could say yes. Oh, I wish I could! I want to more than anything else in the world. But I can't say it honestly. And I know you'd want it no other way. If we can't begin our lives with an honest base—" She paused.

"It's Winthrope, isn't it?"

"Yes," she admitted reluctantly, "and yet I can't hardly be sure even of that. Oh, Leo, what am I to do? Is there something wrong with me that I'm so weak and undecided? Jerry isn't any of the things I admire and respect in a man. He has only one thing to recommend him—his natural kindness and goodness to every living thing. I've seen him buy food for hungry dogs. I've seen him insist that boys who were teasing a helpless mouse put it out of the way quickly and mercifully. He has kindness, but so little else that I've always thought I must demand of a man I might marry. And you, Leo, have everything. Everything. Yet I can't say yes to you. Not honestly—yet, Leo."

"I see," Leo said quietly. "I see. And it's your happiness that's most important after all."

HECKLER IS HEARD ON BBC BROADCAST

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Britons, who have enjoyed reading of a mysterious voice which has been cutting in on German broadcasts for weeks, heard a heckler on their own BBC broadcast Monday night.

During a BBC broadcast for women of the armed forces a voice interrupted to shout:

"Why the hell should we go without milk because the Bolshies want milk!"

The "voice," described as male and "very provincial" in its accent, was apparently trying to comment on the food ministry's milk registration scheme, which became effective today and which restricts milk distribution to persons registered with approved dealers.

Another of the "voice's" interruptions was to blurt: "We want a national government, not an American government or a Jewish government or a government of the press."

KEY TO PARKING METER IS KEY TO THE PROBLEM

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Titusville officials couldn't understand how a quarter got in a parking meter designed to take nothing larger than a nickel. But Police Officer Andy Waid had the answer.

A motorist asked Waid for change for a quarter. The officer did not have the change, but he did have the key to the parking meter. So he unlocked the meter, gave the motorist his change, and dropped the quarter into the box.

GAS ROYALTY DECISION UPHELD BY HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The United States supreme court refused Monday to review a decision denying the owner of land in the Richland gas field in Louisiana a higher royalty than that paid on the basis of the market price of three cents per thousand cubic feet for natural gas.

J. H. Hemler, the land owner, appealed from an adverse decision by the fifth federal circuit court at New Orleans. He contended the Hope Producing company, which leased his farm, had admitted receiving 4.382 cents per thousand cubic feet. Hemler was to get one-eighth of the market price.

ED CROSS TO KNIT SWEATERS

apter Quotas May Reach 500,000 In Initial Order

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(Special) teminiscent of World War I days, d Cross knitting needles again are cking for men in uniform.

Chairman Norman H. Davis in let- s to the secretaries of war and vy announced the Red Cross had inched a nation-wide program to ovide sweaters and other "comfort" icles for distribution at military d naval stations. The program will undertaken by chapter production lunteers now numbering more than 00,000, Chairman Davis said.

Original quotas accepted by the apters may reach 500,000 sweaters, said, adding that first considera- n will be given to hospitalized men d those garrisoned at island defense ses.

Mr. Davis also announced that Red oss kits, familiarly known during orld War I as "ditty bags" by sail- s and "comfort kits" by soldiers, ll be produced by chapter volun- rs for service men in hospitals and the island bases. The kits, contain- g such comfort accessories as writ- g material, toilet articles, sewing t ("housewives") and playing cards, ll reach men on the bases as Christ- as gifts, he said.

The chairman's letter to Secretaries imson and Knox pointed out that ese Red Cross gifts are not intended meet the needs that are the respon- sibility of the army and navy. These tra comforts or luxuries have rved as reminders of the unfailing pport and interest of a grateful tion for its men under arms. Dis- bution will be made at the re- uest of commanding officers from serve stocks in the hands of Red oss field directors.

Mr. Davis pointed out that the knit- g and Red Cross kit projects rep- sent a revival on a broad scale of program originated during the first orld War and carried on since in my and navy hospitals.

During the World War, he said, omen volunteers in Red Cross chap- rs in every community of the land rned out 11,000,000 knitted articles, cluding sweaters, helmets, beanies, ristlets and socks. Altogether hun- eds of thousands of comfort articles ere distributed by the Red Cross American soldiers and sailors both re and abroad, he said, adding that e list of these articles contained 00 different items.

More than 10,000 persons died in ondon from plague during the week September 19, 1665.

Special Ushers Will Be Provided For Navy Band

Boy Scouts To Aid In Afternoon, Rainbow Girls At Night

When the two performances, matinee and night, of the famous United States Navy Band are held in Monroe on Friday those attending will be ushered to their seats by special arrangement. At the matinee at Brown Field, Northeast Junior College, Boy Scouts will be the ushers. At the night performance at Neville High School, Rainbow Girls will be the ushers. The Rainbow Girls organization is a junior Masonic social club, and the band's appearance here is sponsored by Teflis Grotto, Masonic group.

Never in years has the appearance of a musical organization attracted such widespread attention as has the announcement that the famous United States Navy Band will play twice here on Friday. The public is ever-anxious to hear such music as bands afford, and the United States Navy Band ranks as "tops" when bands are mentioned.

The fact that Monroe will be the only city in Louisiana to be favored with a concert at this time also adds interest.

Orders for tickets are coming in to the headquarters at Hotel Frances from all parts of the Fifth district, and it is expected that Shreveport, Minden, Ruston and other places inside of 50 to 75 or 100 miles from Monroe will be largely represented.

The school bands are more than delighted, according to their directors, at the unusual opportunity that they are to be given to compete for cash prizes in the parade that will be held Friday at 10 a.m. in downtown Monroe and also in West Monroe.

Some colored people have been eager to know if they, too, will be given opportunity to hear the Navy Band. This has caused the management to provide seats for colored people for the matinee performance. Temporary benches will be placed at their disposal out on the field. Because the seats and their position will not be quite as desirable as the regular run of seats, colored people will be admitted in their section for the same price as students pay.

OLD 75'S NOW TANK-KILLERS

Big Guns Of Allied Artillery Said To Be Fully Capable

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The famous old "75's" that were the backbone of allied artillery in the first World war are being mechanized as heavy tank-killers for the United States army.

These powerful rifle cannon are being transferred from field artillery organizations and replaced with 105-millimeter Howitzers, Colonel Richard C. Burleson, Second army anti-tank officer, said today.

"The 75's are capable of throwing out 20 shells a minute, and they'll stop the biggest of tanks," declared Colonel Burleson. "Moreover, they're easy to move."

Some of them are being mounted on half-tracks—armored scout cars which have tractor treads on the rear wheels.

"When these half-tracks carry the 75, they are known as tank killers," Burleson asserted. "The idea is for these vehicles, which are faster than tanks, to hunt them down and destroy them."

Thirty-seven millimeter guns make up the bulk of Uncle Sam's anti-tank defenses. They are small and highly mobile and will stop light and medium tanks, but cannot be depended upon to stop heavy tanks.

"Only in the event of a bad slip-up would 37's bear the brunt of a heavy tank assault," Colonel Burleson said. "Guns are emplaced in accordance with the terrain, and any place suitable for tank attack is defended not only by 37's but by the 75's and other weapons.

"We don't cut loose with the anti-tank guns except when we are in front of a first-class attack," he added.

In addition to the hundreds of 75's being transferred from the field artillery, the anti-tank defenses are being strengthened by a stream of new guns turned out by American factories, Colonel Burleson said.

This Week Is One Of Great Activity

United States Navy Band Concert Is Highlight Of This Week's Varied Activities

A great American poet once wrote: "The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year." Life might have been dreary at one time but there is no time for sadness and melancholia in this changing world of ours today.

The fall season this year is the busiest and the gayest we have ever known. October is especially busy with many charming things in the wind. In fact there is so much to do one wonders where to find the time necessary to keep all the engagements marking the daily calendar.

One of the things we must do this week is to attend the United States Navy band concert at Neville auditorium Friday night. Cancel every engagement you might chance to have and listen to stirring patriotic airs supplied by this premier musical organization of the United States navy. It was organized shortly after the World war and had as its nucleus several former ships' bands.

For many years ships' bands have figured prominently in the growth and development of our navy. They have proved an important adjunct to our fleet in helping to maintain the morale of our intrapid seamen. They have served to convey the spirit of the American people to every quarter of the globe.

Could you imagine a more inspiring picture than that presented by our great fleet at the cross roads of the Pacific as it steamed majestically out of the harbor of Hawaii for Guam on its memorable trip around the world? Wafted by a gentle breeze across the gleaming waters is heard the stirring music of the ships' bands. In the distance, and growing fainter, the twinkling lights of the harbor form a jeweled necklace for the stately palm trees beyond which stand silhouetted against a moonlit tropical sky. Cheering crowds become dwindling specks along the silvery beaches of the islands where the warm waves break into scintillating phosphorescent foam.

There could hardly be a finer stage setting for the stirring strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner" or "America" as the ships slip silently out to sea from any port. The world traveler knows the tremendous power of music when the bands on the great liners play "Home Sweet Home" or "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot" as the tugs weave the vessel into its berth on arrival from a foreign port as the whistle toots "All ashore who are going ashore," on departure.

Patriotic songs naturally find a place in the repertoire of ships' musicians. The sailor is preeminently patriotic. Long absences and arduous voyages soften every recollection of home, and his return finds him with an increased devotion to the land of his birth. He learns more thoroughly to revere the flag under which he sails, and to which he proudly points, in distant seas, as the symbol of his native land.

Mrs. A. M. Harris of Orlando, Fla., will spend the winter season with her daughter, Mrs. Sam Smith and Mr. Smith in their home on Auburn avenue. Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Harry Hammel, of Kenosha, Wis., has just completed a visit in the Smith home.

Mrs. Ben Stern, general chairman of the tea at the Little Theater workshop, today wishes to inform the public generally that the receiving hours have been extended to permit those who are unable to attend during the afternoon to call this evening. The hours, from 3:30 to 10, will enable those who work to visit the workshop and pay their respects to the director of Monroe's Little Theater, Mr. Lorenzo Smith and his wife, who so capably assisted him in every undertaking during the past year.

The tea, strictly informal, is for the purpose of renewing some of the old time social intimacy with the thought in view of organizing a woman's club within the Little Theater. Members of this club, when organized, will serve as hostesses at every Little Theater performance and will attend rehearsals. They will be called upon to offer suggestions and give constructive criticism. There will be a distinct social flavor to every meeting.

The Monroe Little Theater is celebrating its 10th anniversary this month and many other affairs, in addition to the tea today, are being planned by members of the board.

Pattern

DOUBLY USEFUL

So becoming are the princess lines of this dress for younger girls that we have planned this pattern so that you can make a dress with it and a house coat of floor length. The shaped bodice sections are the feature which make this dress different—you'll like it too, for the button closing straight down the front, the scooped in waistline and the flaring skirt.

Pattern No. 8965 is designed for even sizes 6 to 14 years. Size 8 dress with short sleeves requires 2 3-8 yards 36-inch material, the floor length house coat with long sleeves, 3 5-8 yards.

For this attractive pattern, send 15c in coin, your name, address, pattern number and size to The News-Star—World Today's Pattern Service 106 7th Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Sleeping Beauty To Be Presented Here

"The present-day controversy as to whether the make-believe of fairy tales is beneficial or injurious for children is nothing new." says Clare Tree Major, founder-director of this country's only nationwide professional theater for children, which will be brought here by the Monroe branch of the American Association of University Women to present the ancient tale, "Sleeping Beauty." "It is surprising that a sociologist has not yet called attention to the fact," Mrs. Major continues, "that whenever political revolutionary trends set in, one of the questions that rises to the surface is that of including in a child's education the folk-lore of bygone civilizations."

Of the controversy now rampant in this country, which began shortly after the Soviet regime in Russia banished fairy tales on the ground that they are divorced from reality, Mrs. Major says, "The pros and cons do not differ at all from those voiced during the century of the French and American revolutions, when the question was just as prominent as it is today."

"An overwhelming majority of educators continue to set a high value on the broadening effect of the imagery in fairy tales, both from the emotional and mental angles," states Mrs. Major. "Disney's greatest success, after all, was 'Snow White,' which proves how great a hold fairy plays have even on the great mass of the heterogeneous American adult public."

There is a greater demand today than ever before for creative imagination in the factory, in business, science and the professions. It has become vital to initiate children to the realm of thought which reaches beyond what can be seen and touched, Mrs. Major believes. "As for today's realism which so greatly impresses our psychologists," says Mrs. Major, "we sometimes overlook the fact that without the sensitive imagination that can picture things before they exist, we would never have any of the great modern conveniences which have been the foremost achievement of our great nation in the world of realism."

"Sleeping Beauty," the fairy tale to be enacted here for children, December 11, is among the six which were selected as the best for them from a psychological 'standpoint by a group of eminent scientists, chosen by Columbia University to discuss the question of fairy tales for the modern child.

CORSETIERE WILL FURNISH ADVICE

Miss Margarette Clay, well known corsetiere at Wards this week, passes on a few friendly tips on what to look for in buying a foundation garment. "Naturally, a woman wants to improve her figure, but this must be done properly and comfortably. A foundation garment has to be as carefully fitted as your shoes."

Miss Clay always appraises a silhouette first with the clothes on, to see which parts of the figure must be improved with the aid of a foundation garment. If the woman has any special abdominal problems or needs extra support, these requirements are thoroughly analyzed and prescribed for.

Almost any garment will look and feel all right when the wearer is standing straight, but the real test comes when the body is in action. When buying a foundation garment, be sure to sit down and bend over in several positions, to make sure your garment has enough "give," yet is firm. Garter placement, also, is of extreme importance. The garters must allow enough "give and stretch" so the stockings will remain fastened when you're sitting, and will not easily rip when the knee is bent.

"If you follow these two important rules," says Miss Clay, "you'll always be comfortable in your foundation garment, and satisfied with your purchase."

fight against Germany even if the azis took Moscow.

The president, Hopkins and Edward Stettinius, the lease-lend administrator, were reported to have agreed hat the Russians are inflicting heavy sses on the Germans, and that Gerany could not but be weakened by e present campaign.

Chairman Glass, Democrat, Virginia, f the Senate appropriations committee, one of those who attended the nference, announced he would suport the additional $5,985,000,000 lease-nd appropriation and would favor sing some of the fund to aid Russia.

At today's appropriations subcomittee hearing on the new lease-lend ppropriation, Chairman Adams, Demcrat, Colorado, said that Stettinius ould be asked "to justify the items" the measure. Stettinius told the hite House conference yesterday he ould bring to the meeting statements etailing how the original $7,000,000,000 ppropriation has been allocated and ow the new fund would be expended.

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, an pponent of administration foreign olicy, told reporters meanwhile that e new allocation amounted "to a mp sum appropriation" and doubtss could be reduced if the Senate xamined each item carefully.

He said that he did not believe the resident should be permitted to send id to any country which he believed be resisting aggression and sugested instead that "we send everyhing we have available to Britain and t her distribute it among her allies s she deems best."

Norris expressed gratification that merican supplies are reaching Rusa.

But if Russia should fall, he said, apan might seek to move into Siberia, take over the Dutch East Indies r make other moves which would be istasteful to the United States.

Reiterating his confidence that this ountry could defeat Japan in short rder, Norris declared that "the psyhological effect of a United States ictory over Japan would be tremendous in Germany, the countries e has subjugated and the countries hich are still opposing her. It would ore than offset the psychological ffect of a German victory over Rusa."

Norris said he considered it possble that Japan, in any conflict with e United States, might "keep its avy hidden in its own waters and void a fight."

"But we could wipe Japan's merant ships off the seas overnight," e added. "The Japanese seem to me be very vulnerable on that point, ecause they must depend on seaorne commerce for their very existice."

The Nebraskan said that if Germany ould win the war and Japan were ot involved the two undoubtedly ould attempt to squeeze the United tates out of Latin-American marets. He said that while he did not ar invasion, the two nations might able to win a commercial victory er this country.

gether with the unioneers to rig decisions against the defendants before the evidence was heard. I am going to cite the time that dame told an employer she would run him bowlegged if he dared send through the United States mails to each man who worked for him a reprint of an article against the union.

I am going to show how the right of free speech was neatly tweezed out of the Constitution as far as employers were concerned by the interpretation of the clause about coercion. It is coercion, you know, if an employer just stops an employe in the hallway and says, "The head of your union is a member of the old Capone mob." No, you can't do that under the Wagner act and if the right of free speech of all the employers in the country can be limited in that indirect way, then you have a pretty good start toward the abolition of all the freedoms of all the people right here in the U. S. A.

Why, it is even coercion if an employer slips a five-dollar raise into an employe's envelope during a period when the committee is talking up a new contract. That is an attempt to curry favor with the employe and win him away from the union. That just means that the individual employe can't even accept any more pay than the unioneers and the mediocrities and incompetents in the same plant want him to receive.

Didn't you know that?

I am going to hammer away also, on the freedom of the unioneers with their brown shirts or goons to harass and persecute people to make them join the union, to threaten and slug them and call them up in the night and terrorize households, and I am going to drive home the fact that Wagner, himself, fought to kill off every suggestion that the unioneers be placed under the same penalties for intimidation and coercion that were provided for the employers. He fought for their right to rule by terror.

It is my idea if I were to campaign on just this one issue and bawl and howl, up and down the state for weeks and months, the people would have him out and elect me. I would tell them that this act wasn't original with him, anyway, but just something that was sent over from the White House and I would make a good stab at finding out and telling who actually did invent the act and the nasty little gimmicks concealed in it under the buttery language.

Well, it is just an idea and there is plenty of time for it to ripen or spoil, but right now I think pretty well of it, so that is why I am asking you what you have to do.

To that end the Panama supreme court ruled unanimously yesterday that Arias forfeited the presidency when he went to Cuba without getting permission from congress or any other authority.

Chairman Bloom vigorously gavelled down attempts of Representative Vorys to place certain material in the committee record.

Vorys sought permission to record a letter which he and three other Republican members had addressed to Bloom, protesting against the limitation of the hearing to two days, together with telegrams received by the chairman from opposition witnesses.

Upon the motion of Representative Luther A. Johnson, Democrat, Texas, Bloom ruled the request should be considered in executive session, to which Vorys replied that he wanted to be heard publicly.

"The chairman has made a stump speech here," the Ohioan said, "and I don't want a star chamber session."

He referred to a statement Bloom had made at the opening criticizing unidentified minority members for saying they had submitted lists of witnesses they desired to be heard.

Johnson arose and told Vorys that "we're going to do things in a decent way here if I have anything to say about it."

After Bloom had gavelled the committee into silence, the committee voted 10 to 6, with one voting "present," to go into executive session. At that point, Representative Mundt got up and tried to make a statement.

"You sit down, Mr. Mundt," yelled Bloom, pounding his gavel again.

Bloom then ordered the room cleared and announced that the open session would be resumed as soon as the question of the record was settled.

Seeking to end the hearings on proposed revision of the neutrality act by nightfall, the committee allotted the anti-revisionists as much time as sponsors of the change received yesterday, when three cabinet members testified there was a compelling reason for the modification.

Even now the navy was reported to have sufficient anti-aircraft guns for the immediate needs of American merchantmen.

Spurred by the testimony of Secretaries Hull, Stimson and Knox that removal of the ban was imperative, Chairman Bloom declared the committee would not permit any extension of the hearing.

JUNIOR LEAGUER SEEKING DIVORCE

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Married October 6, Mrs. Virginia Harvey Marquez filed suit here yesterday for divorce from Edward B. Marquez of New Orleans.

Mrs. Marquez, a Miami Junior Leaguer, charged in her petition that the night after their marriage in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Marquez became intoxicated and took her to a night club where he "falsely accused her of embracing and kissing another man."

The accusation, she said, precipitated a fight which humiliated and embarrassed her to such an extent that she fainted.

The day after their marriage, her petition related, Marquez "started to nag and become indifferent and surly, towards her."

The Miami Herald said that the night after the alleged fight Marquez was admitted to a Miami Beach hospital with a knee injury.

After their honeymoon the couple was to reside in New Orleans where he is associated with a bottling company.

applications for new trials and probation.

One editorial commended the conviction of 22 "sitdown" strikers at an airplane plant in Los Angeles. It appeared prior to the scheduled sentencing of the defendants.

Another editorial said Judge A. A. Scott would make "a serious mistake" if he granted probation for two men convicted, but not yet sentenced, in an assault case growing out of a labor controversy.

Still a third dealt with matters involved in the conviction of a couple for an alleged attempt at bribery.

The state supreme court held in all cases that the editorials, in such an influential newspaper, showed "a reasonable tendency" to affect administration of justice and constituted contempt.

Counsel for the newspaper contended this "reasonable tendency" was not the criterion, and that if it should be held to be, the editorials, addressed to its readers, had no such tendency since the Times' attitude in labor disputes was well known through the years, and involved no new expression of its attitude.

They specifically denied there was any threat of adverse criticism in the event of a court decision contrary to the newspaper's view.

Also argued yesterday was the appeal of Harry Bridges, west coast labor leader, from a Los Angeles contempt conviction.

Bridges' conviction grew out of the sending of a telegram to Secretary of Labor Perkins in which he assailed a state court injunction ruling unfavorable to a C. I. O. union.

The publication of this telegram, counsel for the state court authorities contended, had a tendency to affect a rehearing of the injunction proceedings scheduled for later, especially since the telegram asserted that if the decision stood, a wave of strikes might tie up ports of the west coast.

Bridges' counsel asserted the telegram was not addressed to the judge and neither influenced nor sought to influence future court action.

WINDSOR PLANS TO VISIT WASHINGTON

Aside from the duke's trip to Washington, the couple looked forward to a quiet day at the Saiona farm estate of the duchess' uncle, General Henry M. Warfield. There will be a small family gathering tonight.

represented. It meant much time had to be expended, many people interrogated and solicited over and over again. And then there was always a fear that there might be some duplication of effort and of finances. Now all this is obviated. The Community Chest steps in and does the job and under efforts like the capable advisory group of Mr. Kellogg, the job is being exceptionally well performed.

2 ACTRESSES MAKE PLANS TO MARRY

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Ruby Keeler and Teresa Wright plan to marry soon, but neither actress has set the date yet.

John Lowe, a Pasadena, Calif., broker, said Miss Keeler had promised but added, "We have not set any date for the wedding and don't know where it will be."

Miss Keeler is to receive a $50,000 cash settlement from Al Jolson, from whom she was divorced in 1939, whenever she remarries. So long as she is single, she receives $400 a week.

Miss Wright, 22, and film writer Niven Busch said they plan to be married after Busch's divorce becomes final from Phyllis Cooper, Pasadena society figure. The actress, from East Orange, N. J., came from Broadway to play in "The Little Foxes" with Bette Davis.

Miss Wright's father said he thought announcement of the marriage plans was premature.

TOMATOES CAN BE NICOTINE-LADEN

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 14.—(AP)—By grafting tomato vines on tobacco plants you may get tomato leaves which would be a good smoke; and by vice versa grafts make cigars that would be good tomatoes.

These experiments, designed to find the source of nicotine, were reported to the National Academy of Sciences today by Ray F. Dawson of the University of Missouri.

When tobacco grafts grew on tomato vines, there was no appreciable nicotine in the tobacco. In the reverse experiment, large quantities of nicotine appeared in the tomato leaves and stems.

In fact, the tomatoes themselves were strong with nicotine.

The experiment shows, he said, the nicotine is produced entirely in the roots of tobacco. That is, it is not manufactured by the stems and leaves, but passed up from the roots, wholly formed, and as ready to deposit in tomatoes, if they are there, as in tobacco.

Sugar

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Scattered liquidation and hedge selling dominated quiet trading in sugar futures today. Cables indicating a British sufficiency of sugar provided the only news. World contracts were 2 to 3 1-2 lower, Dec. 2.37, July 2.34.

Domestic contracts were inactive.

Raw and refined sugars remained unchanged.

New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Cotton futures rallied sharply today after losses of as much as 75 cents a bale had been posted. The easing of hedge pressure and Bombay liquidation which had had a depressing effect on the market was brought about largely by Senator Bankhead's statement regarding farm aid. He said he would make application for loans on cottonseed oil and soybeans and the resultant strength in those markets buoyed cotton.

Early losses were induced by favorable weather and a disappointing consumption report.

Late prices were 8 to 14 points higher; Oct. 16.81; Dec. 16.93 and July 17.47.

Futures closed 4-7 higher.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Prolonged tension over the outcome of the battle for Moscow impaired the stock market's resistance today after a spotty rally in the early proceedings.

Various stocks attracted some support at the outset, based on the failure of the disturbing foreign news over the holiday to bring in any substantial volume of selling.

Recoveries at one time ran from fractions to around a point in specialties and an assortment of rubbers, coppers and aircrafts, but a good deal of the improvement disappeared in the later dealings. Persistent heaviness of the steels was a handicap. Declines predominated at the close.

Transfers were slow throughout, reflecting complete detachment from the market of many of its followers in this period of deep concern over the fortunes of the Russians. Transfers for the five-hour stretch were about 400,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The stock market today awaited the outcome of the Battle of Moscow with fair composure, although price trends were mixed.

Resuming after the long week-end holiday, Wall Street was faced with reports indicating the Russians had not thus far stopped the Nazi drives and this fact militated against any important accumulation of buying orders.

Despite thinness of support some parts of the stock list were inclined to improvement at the start. Lacking leadership of group movements, the market's principal stabilizing factor in the early proceedings was a modest upturn in an assortment of specialties, aircrafts, coppers and rubbers. But near the fourth hour many of the gains were reduced or cancelled.

GOPHERS LEAD ASSOCIATED PRESS GRIDIRON POLL

OMPETITION COMES FROM TEXAS, DUKE

ddle Western Elevens Again Dominate First Ten Places

By Bill Boni

EW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Minne- starts a new football campaign where it finished the last one—lo. 1 team in the Associated Press iron ranking poll.

ne Golden Gophers, who so far e made two successful defenses of mythical national championship, e made top choice by 66 of the sports experts in the first of the kly surveys of 1941. On 97 of the ots they were placed either first econd, and they polled 1,081 points, rded on a basis of 10 for first, r second, 8 for third, and so forth. he Gophers' only serious competi- came from the outstanding teams wo other sectors—the Texas Long- ns, who got second place with 934 ts on the strength of one-sided ories over Colorado, Louisiana e and Oklahoma, and Duke's Blue ils, whose major accomplishment date is a three-touchdown victory r Tennessee.

he first ten, composed entirely of winning teams, is dominated, just t was a year ago at this time, by middle west. In addition to Min- ota, there are the Gophers' chief ls for the conference title—North- tern, fifth place; Michigan, sixth, Ohio State, tenth—as well as re Dame, which has won its first e games under Frank Leahy, its head coach.

rdham, winner of two intersec- al games, is the east's top-ranking epresentative, at fourth place, with -scoring but untested navy sev- h. Santa Clara, only unbeaten and ied major eleven left on the Pa- coast, rounds out the first ten inth place.

iggest game in the country this urday, as the poll bears out, will the clash at Evanston, Ill., of thwestern and Michigan, first of season's dog-fights among the Big s ranking powers. With the pos- e exception of Navy, which tackles nell, No. 1 team in the poll a year , and Santa Clara, which plays higan State, none of the others ears to be threatened.

Minnesota should have an easy aft- on against sub-par Pitt; Texas, in first Southwest conference game ys Arkansas, apparently the "weak er"; Duke meets Colgate, already ated by Dartmouth; Fordham uld be a strong choice over West ginia; Notre Dame should have lit- more than a workout with Carnegie h, and Ohio State, off that shel- ing of South California 10 days , shouldn't have much trouble with rdue.

he two teams that brought about Saturday's major upsets had to content with places in the second k. Rice, for its 10-9 licking of ane, wound up in twelfth place. Oregon State, which ended the ame winning streak of Stanford's e Bowl champions, got sixteenth e and no higher because of its y-season loss to Southern Cal.

he standing of the teams (first- e votes in parentheses, scoring on -8-7-6, etc., basis):

1. Minnesota (66)	1,081
2. Texas (30)	934
3. Duke (14)	801.5

HISTORY REPEATS

OPEWELL, Va.—(AP)—Mrs. Frank les, chief clerk of the Hopewell ctive service board, wrote the Fort derdale, Fla., board. A reply e from Mrs. W. H. Randolph, chief k, who was employed with Mrs. les in the Hopewell draft board e in 1917.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(AP)—In case you're still worried because your favorite football team lost Saturday, think of all the guys whose big problem is when the weather will turn cold enough to start the ducks flying south. . . . One report from down Delaware way, where the season opens Thursday, says it has been so hot there that shooters will be afraid to try for the high fliers for fear they might spoil on the way down. . . . Lou Little, Columbia coach, isn't expecting to stop Frankie Sinkwich easily Saturday in spite of the Georgia ace's broken jaw. . . . At the Football Writers' luncheon yesterday Lou said Frankie still can do anything any fullback can do. Then a voice in the background added "except eat steak." . . . Joe Louis is to be examined today to see if he's fit to fight in the army. . . . Wouldn't it be simpler just to ask Lou Nova?

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Tom Sweeney, Worcester (Mass.) Evening Gazette: "Horses are horses, for all that. . . . Run 'em at lovely Tropical Park or quaint Rockingham or even Pascoag Park, and they have a tendency to reveal an immoderate passion for running out of the money, straight and show."

SERVICE DEPT.

The Fort Ord football team, which has been doing right well on the west coast, has Pete Zagar, former Stanford tackle, playing at fullback. . . . He is there because Lieutenant "Snowy" Gustafson, the coach, said so and because Pete is a corporal and outranks the other candidates. . . . Soldiers who were sent from Fort Snelling (Minn.) to Newfoundland, still will be able to follow Minnesota's football fortunes. Movies of each Gopher game will be shipped to them. . . . The Big Six may soon lift its 18-game basketball limit so the conference teams can play the Great Lakes Naval Training Station squad. . . . Corporal Cliff Johnson of Selfridge Field, Mich., was one of the first fighters accepted for the big heavy-weight "hope" tournament at Detroit. . . . The Southeastern Association of the A. A. U. lost its three top-ranking officials to the army when President Guy Stollenwerck, Frank Kopf and George Griffin were called up as reserve officers. . . . Is there any other army outfit besides March Field (Calif.) that has a private bossing its football team? March Field's head coach is Private Blas Mercurio, who used to play for Redlands University.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Herb Kopf (Manhattan College coach): "When I'm scouting a team I spend a lot of time watching the defense of the club it's playing. Because if they're stopping 'em we want to know how they do it."

CLEANING THE CUFF

The football Dodgers have some "discords" too. . . . Five guys with musical instruments trailed them out to Milwaukee Sunday, but didn't see much to toot about. . . . George Lewis, son of Herb Lewis the old Detroit hockey star, is playing halfback in Indianapolis High school football. . . . Sacramento is just finding out that Tony Bonham, the world series hero, is practically a stranger in his own home town. . . . But a guy who has six brothers and six sisters, all older than himself, isn't likely to go out looking for publicity. . . . Clemson may name its new stadium (to be ready next year) after John Heisman, who pioneered Clemson football and then put Georgia Tech on the map. . . . It would make a nice setting for the annual Tiger-Tech battle. . . . The St. Paul Hockey club has signed up Jean Baptiste Pusie, who has fought his way out of two leagues in two seasons. . . . Ohio Wesleyan gridders have permission to grow whiskers for the college's Founders' day, home-coming and centennial celebrations next month. . . . Instead of being "Battling Bishops" they'll be bearded bishops.

ARMY TO GIVE JOE LOUIS PHYSICAL CHECKUP TODAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Joe Louis will have a physical checkup Tuesday to see if he's fit to fight—for the army. The world heavyweight boxing champion was to report to Provident hospital for his original selective service examination. He has been tentatively classified 1-A and scheduled for induction between November 20 and 24.

CURTIS MEETS SCHULTZ TONIGHT

Jack Curtis, the junior light heavyweight champion of the nation, above, will tangle with the rough "Dutch" Schultz, of Milwaukee, in the main event of the wrestling show at the Monroe arena tonight.

Schultz-Curtis Mat Bout Tops Program At Arena

Referee Ordered To Enforce Rules In Tonight's Main Event

"Dutch" Schultz, the Milwaukee meanie who has been violating most of the rules of wrestling in compiling an impressive list of victories in the local mat arena, may find himself thoroughly throttled when he meets Jack Curtis, junior light heavyweight champion of the nation, in the main event of the weekly wrestling card in the Monroe Wrestling arena tonight. The show will start at 8:30 p. m.

Schultz previously has been allowed to run wild but tonight, according to Promoter Gus Kallio, there'll be one restriction that he won't like, if it's enforced. And Promoter Kallio says it will be enforced. Schultz has been officially advised that he will be required to break a hold on a 5-count by the referee. That means that many illegal grips that Schultz employs must be broken before they do any damage.

Referee "Butch" Martin, who will handle both matches tonight, has been instructed to pry Schultz loose from his foe if the Milwaukee entry violates the rule. And that may mean a few brisk exchanges between the referee and the tough Wisconsin light heavyweight.

Both Schultz and Curtis have expressed confidence that they'll win tonight, but it should prove an interesting match if the rules are enforced—or it may prove even more interesting if Schultz doesn't abide by the standard regulations which are supposed to govern the game.

In the semi-final match, Sugi Hayamake, the jiu jitsu expert from Honolulu, will tangle with Les Chapman, a rugged performer from Chicago.

Promoter Kallio has announced that there will be no increase in prices. In fact, he said that soldiers in uniform will be admitted to the program for 20 cents.

PRO ELEVEN GETS STARS

Many Of Last Year's All-American Picks To Play With N. Y.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(AP)—One-half of the 1940 All-America backfield and one-seventh of the 1940 All-America line will play for the New York Americans next Sunday in an American pro football league game with the Columbus Bulls.

The lineman, Tackle Nick Drahos of Cornell, has been with the club since the start of the season. Monday it was announced by club President William Cox, New York lumberman, that among the backs for whom Drahos will be opening holes will be John Kimbrough, the bruising fullback of Texas A. and M.'s Cotton Bowl champions, and Tom Harmon, Michigan's great triple-threat halfback.

Harmon was signed for this one game last week and committed himself verbally to playing in the Americans' three other home games—the balance of their schedule—if he can make arrangements to continue his Detroit broadcasting work by telephone hookup from New York.

He will be paid on a basis of $12,500 for an eight-game season—$6,250 if he goes in all four, $1,562.50 if it turns out to be only a one-day stand.

Jarrin' John has been signed for all four of the Americans' games, and will get $1,500 for each.

Hertz last February signed Kimbrough to two contracts. One, a personal contract calling for $25,000, was for movie work, advertising testimonials, etc. The other, for $12,500, was to play football this fall for the New York Yankees, whose American league franchise then was held by Hertz.

Hertz in the meantime was disfranchised by the league president, Cox, and his associates stepping in to take over the franchise and change the club's name to Americans.

But until Monday Hertz, now owner of an independent football team which retains the name of Yankees, had an attachment on all Kimbrough's earnings, including the salary paid him for his eight weeks' work as "The Lone Ranger" for a Hollywood studio. This morning Kimbrough, with the Americans' assistance, bought up the personal contract for $11,500 and the football contract for another $3,000.

The Americans so far have won three games out of four on the road.

NEVILLE READY FOR BOSSIER

Tigers Take Long Drill For Tilt Thursday; Farmers Dropped

Neville High school's Tigers were sent through a long signal drill yesterday in preparation for their tilt with Bossier City at Neville stadium next Thursday night.

Coach Percy Brown sent the Tigers through a lengthy session that included running, passing and punting practice but there was no bodily contact work.

Today, however, the Bengals will be given a stiff scrimmage session, their hardest workout of the week. Coach Brown said his squad would work under "game conditions" today and one of the stiffest pracuce sessions so far engaged in this season is promised for the Neville team, whose tilt with Bossier City is one of the most important on the local schedule.

Coach Brown announced yesterday that every member of the squad came out of the bruising game with Farmerville last week in good shape and the team should be at full strength against the Bossier parish aggregation.

"Bossier City has a fine team," Coach Brown said last night, "and we will have to be at our best to beat them. They lost a heart-breaking contest to Lake Charles last week and that was a good indication of how good they are. We expect plenty of trouble but we're ready to put up a whale of a battle if we get through our practice sessions this week without injuries."

RELATIONS SEVERED

Coach Percy Brown of Neville High school announced last night that all athletic relations with Farmerville High school had been severed as a result of the free-for-all fight that followed the closing play of the Neville-Farmerville game last Friday night.

Neville and Farmerville teams have competed in football and boxing for a number of years.

Immediately following the closing whistle last week, players of the two teams started swinging and a number of spectators joined in the melee. Coach Brown rushed upon the field and a spectator hit him over the head with a field marker. He suffered a severe gash on the head.

'Old Professor' Is Still Dizzy From Grid Upsets

Queries In Weekly 'Classroom' Reveal Lots Of Close Harmony

By Whitney Martin

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(The News-Star—World Special News Service)—The Old Professor was pretty well wound up—almost tight, in fact—as he assembled his Monday morning class of football coaches. It was very quiet, only a muffled sob here and there breaking the stillness. The windows and doors were closed, but there must have been quite a draught through the keyhole, as the Old Professor swayed like a cornstalk in a gale.

Old Professor—Please excuse my condition, gentlemen. I was watching a game Saturday and suddenly everything went black. When I came to a fellow was holding a jug to my mouth and saying: "Here, take a sip of this." Strongest water I ever saw. Strongest fellow, too. Couldn't hardly get the jug away from him. Been dizzy ever since.

Bob Zuppke, Illinois—Don't talk about dizzy, please. That Minnesota team ran us that way. That's the most powerful team I've seen in my whole career. They're big, and they're not big, slow men. This man Smith, and Jim Thorpe—I mean Daley—they're the real class. We were just outclassed.

Old Professor—Outclassed by the class, heh? How about that, Mr. Bierman?

Bernie Bierman, Minnesota—We just overpowered them. That first touchdown play got them a little bothered, too, for a while. We went right down to the bottom of the till for substitutes and turned up a couple who may take some pressure off the regular backs. This Bud Higgins looked good, and Plunkett is going to help a lot.

Old Professor—As if you need help, Mr. Stiner, how did you find the "T"? A little weak?

Lon Stiner, Oregon State—Our boys tackled hard, blocked well and showed a general team spirit that counts. They won their own game from Stanford.

Clark Shaughnessy, Stanford—Oregon State was a better team Saturday and deserved to win. I was pleased with our sophomores. They made some mistakes, as expected, but came through pretty well.

Old Professor—Mr. Dawson, you look like a bridegroom. Get that Rice out of your hair.

Red Dawson, Tulane—I wish I could. Rice had the best team we have played this year. We played well the second half, but couldn't handle Rice.

Jess Neely, Rice—My boys played alert, agressive football. We got some breaks, but we hustled for them.

Old Professor—Mr. Leahy, please quit stroking that rabbit's foot.

Frank Leahy, Notre Dame—I need it, Professor. We were lucky to beat Tech. What a game! Don't let the score fool you. That Tech team fought until the last second.

Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech—In spite of the score, I was proud of my boys and better pleased than last year when we lost 20-0. With Bosen in shape we had a better offensive then, but this year we are stronger defensively. That Bertelli looks like he might develop into a remarkable passer.

Old Professor—Mr. Nelson and Mr. Munger, stop patting each other on the back. Did you both have the right horse in the fifth?

George Munger, Penn—I'm just telling him Yale is to be congratulated on a swell team. The Elis tackled hard and their pass offense had us completely baffled.

Spike Nelson, Yale—And I was telling George that Yale lost to a mighty fine outfit. Penn was too big and powerful for us. Our boys did a good job and the second-half passing attack showed that Yale was right in there at the end.

Old Professor—Mr. Luster, what are you doing with that map?

Snorted Luster, Oklahoma—Just showing Dana Bible how far his team should go this season. The Longhorns have everything—speed, power, drive and plenty of smart players.

Dana Bible, Texas—We had too much speed for Oklahoma. Working behind our fine line, Pete Layden and Jack Crain were just too fast for the Sooners. And we'll get better and better. We should be a lot stronger two or three weeks from now.

Old Professor—He beats a team like Oklahoma 40 to 7, and says he'll do better next time! In other words, his Longhorns just kill 'em now. In the future they'll kill 'em dead. Well, time's up, gentlemen. Where is Mr. Stidham today? Oh, he has a headache. So have I, gentlemen, so have I. I never saw such strong water.

A DRAW IS BEST THIS PROFESSOR COULD GET

CLEMSON, S. C., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Prof. R. R. Ritchie of Clemson college saw three major football games over the week-end and is still looking for a winner.

Unable to see Clemson's victory at Boston college, Ritchie saw the Mississippi-Georgia game Friday night in Athens, Ga., the South Carolina-Wake Forest game in Columbia Saturday afternoon and the Furman-North Carolina State game in Greenville Saturday night. The scores, respectively, were 14-14, 6-6, and 0-0.

Gridiron Briefs

TENNESSEE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 14.—(AP)—All members of the Tennessee football squad, including Johnny Butler, who was held out of last Saturday's Dayton game because of a wrenched shoulder, and Bobby Cifers, who performed in only two plays before reinjuring an ankle, participated in a light drill Monday.

Coaches checked the rest of the players for possible lately developed injuries, and finding none, sent the Vols through a short passing drill and a tag defensive scrimmage against the freshmen using Alabama plays.

LOUISIANA STATE

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Louisiana State's football squad Monday began a vigorous practice campaign for its game here next Saturday against the powerful Rice Owls with Coach Bernie Moore calling for vast improvement in blocking and ball-handling.

Moore pointed out to the squadsmen, both on the practice field and in displaying motion pictures of L. S. U.'s scoreless tie with Mississippi State, that costly fumbles, particularly on the part of fullbacks, had stalled several scoring marches.

On nearly every play with a touchdown in prospect, Moore said, some player failed to do his blocking chore and it therefore fizzled. Tiger defensive play showed up much better against the Maroons, he conceded.

Work on polishing up the Tiger offense began Monday afternoon in a light signal drill with a full-blast scrimmage scheduled Tuesday.

MISSISSIPPI STATE

STARKVILLE, Miss., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Mississippi State's first two football teams rested Monday while the reserves went through a hard scrimmage.

With an open date Saturday, the Maroons will attempt to consolidate their abilities for the game with Union October 25. Coach Allyn McKeen said he was well satisfied with his team's performance in its first three games.

MISSISSIPPI

OXFORD, Miss., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Merle Hapes, Mississippi's great fullback, was on the sidelines Monday nursing a sprained wrist as the Rebels moved through their first preparations for the game with Holy Cross this week-end.

The team had a sharp drill, polishing their own offense and getting their first look at Crusader plays. The Rebels will leave Thursday by air for Holy Cross.

TULANE

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Tulane's entire squad, with the exception of Jimmy Thibaut who was home with upset stomach, went through a brisk workout Monday in preparation for Saturday's game with the North Carolina Tar Heels.

The varsity men who did not get in the Rice contest conducted a regular scrimmage with the freshmen, while the other lads participated in group work.

VANDERBILT

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Vanderbilt's conquering Commodores are attracting jubilant praise from mid-Tennessee supporters but Coach Red Sanders refused to ruffle his outward calm.

"The Wildcats beat themselves in the second half Saturday," remarked the Vandy coach, referring to the Commodores' 39-13 drubbing of Kentucky at Lexington. He added:

"Of course we're undefeated. But what about Georgia Tech, Princeton, Tulane, Alabama, Tennessee and undefeated Sewanee? Anyone who thinks Vanderbilt will have an undefeated-untied season is a chump."

Conceding that there may be such people hereabouts, Sanders said the only game he was concerned with currently was Georgia Tech. The Engineers play the Commodores here Saturday.

"There's no reason to show optimism," declared Sanders, whose Vandy team thumped Purdue 3 to 0, Tennessee Tech 42 to 0 and then Kentucky. "Only encouragement I could give would be that our backfield is better than last year's."

AUBURN

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Auburn football squad opened preparations Monday for the intersectional clash with Southern Methodist university at Birmingham Saturday with four gridmen on the sidelines because of injuries.

Halfback David Lyon and End Fagan Canzoneri, both hurt in the game with Louisiana Tech, will be out several days, Coach Jack Meagher said.

Clarence Harkins, Auburn's No. 1 tailback, and Nick Ardillo, husky regular guard, both missed the flip game because of injuries but Meagher said Harkins probably will be ready this week-end. Ardillo, however, may not get to play.

RICE

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Rice gridsters, battered and bruised from the 10 to 9 upset victory over Tulane Saturday, took things easy Monday but the third stringers, the boys who saw little or no service against the Greenies, squared off in a head knocking with the freshmen.

Bob Brumley, who scored the 10 points that beat Tulane, did not suit out for the practice. He is nursing a bruised hip, shoulder and side but should be ready for Saturday's game with Louisiana State.

FLORIDA

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 14.—(AP)—Coach Tom Tieb gave the University of Florida football players a deserved rest Monday as a reward for their fine play against Villanova Saturday night.

Meanwhile Lieb and Line Coach Sam McAllister viewed motion pictures of the game which Villanova won on a 53-yard pass play, 6-0, and planned their strategy for next Saturday's game with Maryland at College park.

ALABAMA

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The Alabama Crimson Tide worked until long after dark Monday night in a drill featuring a freshman rendition of plays used by its arch rival Tennessee.

The squad suffered no major injuries in the Howard game last Saturday but four regulars or near regulars still were being held out of rough work. Tackle Noah Langdale and Backs Paul Spencer and Russ Craft are still nursing pre-game hurts and probably will not get in scrimmage this week.

TRIBE DISPLAYS FORM IN DRILL FOR HENDERSON

Squad Looks Good, But Injuries May Hurt Locals Saturday

Coach Jim Malone's Northeast Junior college Indians, after a week of idleness, renew their gridiron rivalry with the Henderson State Teachers at Brown field Saturday.

Henderson State, of Arkadelphia, Ark., a four-year school, is reported to have one of its best teams in several seasons and Coach Duke Wells of the Reddies is said to have his team primed to halt the string of close victories which the Indians have chalked up in the past three seasons. Northeast Junior college won 20-18 last year in a free-scoring game that had the fans on edge all the way.

Although injuries have removed several Indian stalwarts from the lineup for the next two weeks or more, Coach Malone found several encouraging signs in yesterday's workout.

First of all, the Redskin mentor was worried abount a punter to replace James McElroy, quarterback who is definitely out of Saturday's game. McElroy was the Indians' ace punter and blocker until he was hurt two weeks ago. However, in yesterday's practice session two fine punters displayed their prowess. They are Clayton Brown, a Monroe boy, and Howard Williams, of Jeannette, Pa. Each was booting the ball for about a 60-yard average, which is plenty good enough. And each is a good blocker.

Basil Fain, of Tupelo, Miss., who has been out of action all season because of an injury, will start at quarterback in McElroy's place, Malone announced.

The Indians were given a workout that lasted after dark yesterday. Offensive signal drill was stressed chiefly, but there was plenty of practice on passing, punting and running. As a whole, the squad looked exceptionally good.

Coach Malone announced that the squad would get lots of bodily contact today, with a long scrimmage session on the practice program. Both offensive and defensive play will be stressed in today's practice.

Injuries have plagued the Indians all year, and at least five standouts on the squad will not be available for play in Saturday night's game. Besides McElroy, Peter B. Meek, a guard, has been out most of the season; Joe Swanger, halfback, suffered a broken leg in the Kilgore game; Bob Zuendel, another halfback and a great prospect, also is on the hospital list, and Willard Smith, a freshman who was being groomed for an important place on the Indian eleven, resigned from school. Smith, who hails from Houston, Texas, has been called home several times because of the serious illness of his mother, Coach Malone said. He is expected to reenter school at mid-term.

TEXAS SHUNS TALK OF BOWL

Longhorns First Must Defeat Tough Foes In Own Conference

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 14.—(AP)—There'll be no bowl talk for the University of Texas football team if bald Dana Bible has anything to do with it.

Texas has just finished polishing off three well-regarded teams—Colorado, Louisiana State and Oklahoma.

But the little mentor declared his team still faced the gamut of Southwest conference foes and will play them one at a time.

Bible also revealed just how he keeps the boys "up" week after week with all that bowl talk going the rounds.

"Saturday we play Arkansas, a great improved team, to start our conference schedule," he said. "We have Rice, Southern Methodist and Baylor, all carrying power. After them come Texas Christian, also potent, and finally comes Texas A. and M. on its home field. Each game is a separate problem."

Bible said keeping the boys at a high pitch each Saturday was the hardest problem of coaching.

"Every Monday we review weaknesses shown in Saturday's game. We urge them to correct those defects. Competition for team berths is high."

The coach said he emphasized the fact that "we can't go up by sitting down," adding "on occasion, when something we believe important is said in the papers by sports writers or opposing coaches, we discuss it. Sometimes those things burn us up. They arouse the players and help prepare them for games."

FERRIDAY ELEVEN PLAYS DELHI ON FRIDAY NIGHT

FERRIDAY, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—Rolling along toward what looks like a Class "B" championship of north Louisiana, the Ferriday High school Bulldogs' next opponent will be the Delhi Bears. The game, the fourth conference contest for the Bulldogs, will be played at Fisher field here at 8 o'clock Friday night.

Delhi is highly rated and Ferriday should encounter more trouble with the Bears than they did against Winnfield, Olla, Clarks, and two non-conference opponents, the Catholic High school Green Wave of Natchez and the Franklin County Aggies of Meadville, Mississippi.

Ferriday has been playing heads-up ball all season and the backfield built around S. G. Williams and Austin Wilson, a pair of juggernauts on offense. Williams in high scorer of the team and Wilson is a passer and punter as well as an off-tackle specialist. Standing out on defense for the Bulldogs is James Otto Lancaster, center.

GAME WARDEN'S TRIAL FOR MURDER POSTPONED

ORANGE, Tex., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The trial of C. C. Crow, Newton county game warden charged with the slaying of Oscar Snyder of Louisiana was continued Monday on motion of the state.

Snyder lived across the Louisiana line in the Snyder bend community. He died in a DeQuincey, La., hospital three days after a woodlands shooting a year ago Monday. Crow was indicted on a charge of murder in March.

DECLARES RICE DESERVED TO WIN

Dawson Gives Credit To Rice For Victory Over Green Wave

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Coach Red Dawson of Tulane said today that a team which plays as spiritedly as the Rice Owls did Saturday in upsetting his club 10 to 9 "deserves to win."

Addressing the Monday Quarterbacks' club, Dawson was asked the pointed question: "Don't you think a keyed-up team that makes its own breaks deserves to beat a team that outplays it statistically."

"Sure," he replied. "Rice was very high for the game. There was no question but that they were ready. They were not great against us, but they helped make their breaks and a team like that deserves to win."

Asked if one of his linemen were not out of position when Rice scored its touchdown through the middle of the powerful Tulane wall, Dawson said, "one of our linemen wanted to look up and see what was going on over the top and they sneaked in on him."

The Green Wave's coach said there had been a "bit of a difference" in his team's morale for the Rice game and for the season's opener in which Tulane whipped Boston college.

"We got a shellacking from B. C. last year," he explained, "and the kids got to talking about the game early and were in condition for it. That was not so about Rice. They wanted to win all right. But it's hard to keep on edge for three straight Saturdays."

Coach Bernie Moore of Louisiana State said he expected a "going over" this Saturday night from the Rice Owls, which his scouts reported as "a fine team."

He said he expected Sophomore J. C. Winfiele, whom he described as "the best defensive guard we have," would be ready for Rice. Winfiele suffered a pulled muscle early in the season and pulled it again in the Texas game two weeks ago.

Moore was asked if reports were true that Piggy Barnes, his great sophomore tackle of last year who dropped out of school, had returned. The coach replied that Barnes was working near Baton Rouge but was not enrolled as a student.

After several questions regarding Rice and Texas U., which beat L. S. U. 34-0, Moore declared Jokingly: "I'm not making any more remarks about Texas. I've taken such a panning from the Texas sports writers that I'm going to take care of my own business and let them take care of theirs."

MARRY YOUNG, URGES DURANT

Town Hall Lecturer Has Decided Opinion On Marital Subject

While Dr. Will Durant, who will lecture here on October 20 to members of Monroe's Town Hall club, is scheduled to discuss "The World Revolution" as his theme, he also has decided opinions on other topics, for example that of the marital status.

Dr. Durant is not opposed to early marriage; he is for more and earlier marriages; but he does think that wives should do something about sharing the economic burdens of marriage. He claims more of them should find jobs.

This noted philosopher declares that their grandmothers and great grandmothers would probably consider many modern matrons as little more than parasites. Modern machinery and industrial methods have taken from the home the tasks that made women the economic helpmates of their husbands in past times, such as sewing, baking, canning, weaving and washing clothes, he says. Today these activities must be paid for out of their husband's earnings and are an added economic burden on the husband, while the wife, in many instances, finds time hanging heavily on her hands, Dr. Durant says.

Dr. Durant is quoted as saying that no man-made machine can ever take over the job of rearing children, but feels that in many instances wives could make a greater contribution to the marriage partnership either by taking care of themselves or their children and their home, or by working at some financially remunerative job.

Dr. Durant also advocates the restoration of the dowry system as another means of smoothing out marital difficulties. This would permit marriages to take place when the parties are young and would not then have to wait for economic stability before getting married.

U. S. CIVIL SERVICE IN NEED OF OILERS

The United States Civil Service commission has announced an open competitive examination for the position of oiler, marine, to fill vacancies in the Vicksburg, Miss., engineer district. The salary is $1,260 and $1,440 per annum, less a retirement deduction of 3½ per cent, and $420 a year for subsistence and quarters, when furnished.

Applicants must show that they have had at least six months of paid experience as oiler or steam engines, either in marine service, or as oiler or engineman in a stationary steam plant operating at least two compound steam engines. Applicants must show in their applications the type and horsepower of steam engines on which their experience has been acquired.

They must have reached their 18th birthday but must not have passed their 50th birthday on the closing date for receipt of applications. The age limits do not apply to persons granted military preference because of military or naval service, except that such applicants must not have reached the retirement age.

Applications should be filed with the Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U. S. Engineer Office, P. O. Box 60, Vicksburg, Miss., on or before the close of business on November 7, 1941.

BUR CLOVER SEED PROCESS EXPLAINED

FERRIDAY, Oct. 14.—(Special)—In an effort to secure a greater production of bur clover seed, C. P. Seab, Concordia parish agent, recently sent letters to parish farmers regarding the AAA having included bur clover seed patches as a practice for payment in 1942.

In his letters the parish agent pointed out that the farmers should take advantage of this added facility for getting seed patches established. He said it was getting late for seeding bur clover without treating or soaking the seed in water.

CITY WATER SUPPLY DELIVERED BY RAIL

MT. VERNON, Ill., Oct. 14.—(AP)—This day was a normal Monday—washday—in this city but the water came by railroad tank car from the Ohio river via the Evansville, Ind., water system.

Their lake reserves nearly exhausted by drought, the Illinois-Iowa Power company began shipping water by tank car last night. Today 60 cars, formerly used for oil, were emptied into a reservoir.

About 100 tank cars, with a capacity of 6,800 to 8,000 gallons each, will be required daily to meet the need for water.

A special crew read meters today because a new water rate will become effective by which customers will bear 40 per cent of the added expense during the emergency.

The official flag of Alaska was designed by a 13-year-old boy.
